Suez Settlement Hopes Reach New High Point

UNIFY OUR FORCES SAYS WEEKEND ARTICLE

Canada's three armed services should be unified into one fighting force, says Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, in an exclusive Weekend Magazine article in this issue today.

NICARAGUA CHIEF WOUNDED

Angry Crowd Beats Assassin to Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua was shot three times at a reception Friday night and his assassin was beaten to death, the Nicaraguan Embassy reported here today.

Wounded in the arm, leg and stomach, Somoza's condition was described as "delicate."

President Eisenhower has ordered a U.S. medical team flown to Managua from the Panama Canal Zone.

Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa said he received details of the shooting by telephone from Managua, capital of Nicaragua.

He said the attack on Somoza occurred while the president was attending a reception in his honor at Leon, a city near Managua.

He said that while most of the large crowd was dancing, Somoza, seated in a chair at one side, was approached by a man who probably fired four shots, one shot breaking the president's arm, one hitting him in the leg, the third piercing his stomach.

The ambassador said the crowd turned on the assassin and beat him to death.

The man, he said, had come to Managua a few days ago from the nearby country of San Salvador.

ONE DOWN in her bid to capture the U.S. women's golf championship Canada's Mariene Stewart was 1 down to 17-year-old Joanne Gunderson, of Kirkland, Wash., after 18-holes of their 36-hole final today at Indianapolis.

The Pacific Coast youngster twice came from behind to gain her halfway point margin. Miss Gunderson is the U.S. junior titleholder.

10 Youths Hurt In Rock-Roll Riot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A rash of violent fights, several of them between whites and Negroes, erupted at Friday's annual city high school football pageant, ending with 10 youths stabbed or beaten.

More than 200 police officers swarmed into Kezar Stadium on a riot call which was sounded after segments of the crowd of 20,000 got out of hand.

Door Seen Open For New Talks With Nasser

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Indian leaders were reported today to view the final communique of the Suez conference in London with "relief."

They are said to be glad the conference toned down its original plan for the Suez Canal Users' association and opened up the way for new negotiations.

Unofficial sources here point out that two aspects of the users' association strongly objected to by Egypt—use of the association's pilots through the canal and collection of tolls by the association—appear to have been left "flexible" in the wording of the final London communique.

Political circles here now believe the prospect of finding a peaceful solution to the Suez problem is brighter than at any time since Prime Minister Eden's speech in the British Parliament proposing the formation of a canal users' association.

These circles attach particular importance to the reported remark by W. K. Krishna Menon, Indian minister without portfolio, to correspondents in Cairo that he hopes the two sides will agree to a satisfactory solution in a spirit of give and take.

As Menon has had several meetings with Nasser, his remarks are believed in political circles here to indicate that Egypt is prepared to meet halfway any proposal for a peaceful solution of the problem as long as Egyptian sovereignty is not affected in any way.

Blunted Suez Plan Approved by France

LONDON (AP) — The French cabinet decided today to participate in the blunted Suez Canal Users Association, but with the reservation that it must not weaken insistence on the principle of international administration of the waterway.

At the same time Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd issued formal invitations fixing Oct. 1 as the date for a third London Suez conference to settle the controversial details of putting SCIA into action.

The conference will be on the ambassadorial level, and invitations went to the 17 other countries which attended the just-adjourned meeting that founded the association. Counting France, at least 12 of the 18 attending powers have lined up to join the new international agency which will seek a solution to Egypt's nationalization of the canal.

Adherence to the agency by France, which had insisted on strong action against Egypt's President Nasser, was placed in question Friday when the French claimed that most of the association's teeth had been pulled before it was born.

The French were particularly annoyed because a plan for SCUA to collect tolls paid by all members was dropped.

The cabinet, meeting in Paris today to hear a report from Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, declared, however, that it will "work to maintain French-British solidarity."

Britain too wants to keep as much revenue out of Nasser's hands as possible, but Lloyd officially went along with the tempered version.

Despite French agreement to join, a Paris communique after a two-hour cabinet meeting declared that France will continue to "conserve her liberty of action, and refuses to collaborate in any measure which she estimates will be contrary to her essential interests or the objectives" of international operation of the canal.

Meanwhile, Nasser flew today from Cairo to Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, for a three-power Arabian conference with President Shukri Kuwailid of Syria and King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

There is speculation in the Egyptian capital that Nasser's

Arab neighbors, fearing that a shut-down of the canal or its diminished importance would cut their own oil revenues from the West, have been putting pressure on him to come to an agreement.

Some informants in Cairo have been hinting that SCUA came close to meeting Nasser's ideas, and there is much curiosity about the forthcoming visit to London of India's roving ambassador, V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon, who embodies Indian hopes of bridging the gulf between Egypt and the West, has just wound up an intensive week of diplomatic bargaining with Nasser in Cairo.

The 18 countries, counting Britain, invited here to the Oct. 1 conference control 90 to 95 per cent of the shipping through the canal. The organizers hope that all 18 eventually will join.

The new conference will deal mainly with administration of the new agency. Headquarters may be selected, and a governing board chosen.

Court Action Set Against Tunnel Union

VANCOUVER—A spokesman for contractors affected by the province-wide strike of tunnel and rock workers said today contempt of court proceedings will be launched Monday against two officials and three pickets of the Tunnel and Rockworkers' Union.

J. A. Bourne, counsel for the contractors, members of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C., said he has already given notice in court of an application for an order that the five named men be committed to jail for defying an injunction against picketing, issued a week ago by Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes.

The men are Arthur R. Andres, president, and William L. Hunchuk, secretary-treasurer of the Tunnel and Rockworkers' Union, and pickets Pete Colaris, Allan McNab and John Moe.

Mr. Bourne said the pickets named are at the hydro-electric project at Upper Campbell Lake on Vancouver Island.

The strikers, who broke away from the International Hod Carriers' Union and are attempting to start negotiations on their own, have tied up the removal of Ripple Rock, a navigation hazard in Seymour Narrows, hydro-electric projects at Garibaldi and Campbell Lake, the Squamish highway project at Horseshoe Bay, and the Cheakamus hydro project.

Officials of the hod carriers' union have urged the strikers to return to work. They condemned the walkout and asked the men to return "as evidence of labor's integrity and responsibility."

Princess In Mau-Mau Land For Royal Tour

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived here by air today to start her five-week East African tour.

The sun blazed down out of a clear sky as the smiling princess stepped down from the airliner which had brought her from London.

She was dressed in blue orpingtons, white gloves, shoes and handbag. She also wore a diamond spray and pearls.

Margaret flew into Mombasa via Gibraltar, Kano, Nigeria, and Entebbe, Uganda.

During an hour's stopover at Kano Friday night the princess took a 60-minute moonlight spin through the quiet city.

The holiday spirit seized Mombasa after the arrival Friday of the royal yacht Britannia, in which the princess will later sail to Mauritius and Zanzibar.

Some Arabs, including children, have come hundreds of miles to see the Princess. Many of the African villagers have never before seen a city or a two-story building.

Margaret's plane was to have flown over Egypt but the Suez Canal crisis caused a change of plan.

It also caused the Britannia to go around the Cape of Good Hope instead of through the canal.

This is her third trip to Africa, and her second official tour by herself. She is due to return to London Oct. 26.

The governor told reporters Friday the Princess' visit to Kenya is a sign of the enormous improvement in stamping out Mau Mau anti-British terrorism that began four years ago.

The Princess will visit areas which were formerly centres of Mau Mau activity, the governor said.

Motorist Kills Other Driver

BOSTON, N.Y. (AP)—A motorist was shot and killed today by the driver of another automobile after the cars had collided and the two men climbed out and began to discuss the accident, state police said.

Wrong-Way Freighter Breaks Up on Beach

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Huge seas, smashing against the beached freighter Seagate throughout the night, broke the ship in half today only hours before a salvage crew planned to attempt to refloat her.

Foss of the Foss Launch and Tug Co. reported.

Foss said the ship, which went aground on Washington's coast Sept. 6, will be "a total loss."

When the ship first grounded in dense fog the crew thought she was on Brodich Ledge at the entrance to the Victoria, B.C., harbor. A second message from the ship placed it at Race Rocks, 12 miles west of Victoria. It finally was located wrecked on Sonora Reef, on the Washington coast 70 miles south of Cape Flattery.

Three days after grounding a storm did what tugs had been unable to do—dislodge the ship.

She drifted two and one-half miles before grounding on Tahola Beach.

The two halves of the vessel had not parted this morning, but the towing company official said that would probably happen in the afternoon.

A Foss company salvage crew headed by Jeff Hoag of Seattle and Drew Foss of Tacoma is standing by to await developments and determine what attempts might be made to salvage the remains of the ship.

The tug Craig Foss is also on the scene.

Workmen had been scheduled to be put aboard the freighter by helicopter this weekend to start their efforts to refloat the Liberian registered ship.

B.C. Liberal Chiefs Meet Next Week on Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP)—Executives of the B.C. Liberal Association, including six regional vice-presidents, are expected to meet here next week to hold an election post-mortem.

In Wednesday's provincial election, the party had its strength halved to two seats in the 52-seat legislature and its leader, Arthur Laing, was defeated in Vancouver-Point Grey.

Mr. Laing was asked today if his defeat meant he would step down as party leader. He replied: "It's far too early to say. I haven't thought about it."

Mr. Laing said he will take a few days' holiday before the meeting next week with party chiefs.

First Place Manchester U. In Shutout

LONDON (UP)—Manchester United, defending champion in the British Soccer League's first division, kept its one-point grip on first place today by shutting out Manchester City, last season's Football Association Cup champion, 3-0.

The triumph kept the division leaders undefeated at home this season and was the sixth loss on the road for Manchester City.

All of the top-ranked clubs played at home and all won except Bolton. Wolverhampton upset Bolton, 3-0. The other three top teams threw up stout defences to win their matches. Leeds shut out Aston Villa, 1-0; Tottenham whipped Luton, 5-0; and Birmingham defeated Cardiff, 2-1.

RCAF Canso Hunts Missing Men, Plane

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—An RCAF Canso searched again today for two missing Williams Lake men and their light plane, missing in the rugged Buckley House-Fort St. James area of north-central B.C.

Pilot Bert Lloyd, 30, and prospector Bert Goodrich, 48, were due to return to Vanderhoof, Sept. 15. They started out from there on Sept. 10 in their light float plane to make an aerial survey of placer mining claims.

A trader said he saw the men on Sept. 15 near Buckley House, on Takla Lake, 150 miles northwest of Prince George.

An RCAF Canso searched all water routes from Buckley House to Fort St. James Friday at an altitude of between 2,000 and 3,000 feet without success.

STIFF SENTENCE

VANCOUVER—A six-time-offender was handed a six-month jail sentence Friday for impaired driving, the longest term ever imposed for such an offence in B.C.

Douglas Williamson, 31-year-old Vancouver salesman, was also prohibited from driving for three years after being arrested early Friday while driving erratically at a south-central intersection here.

FISHERMEN SET DEADLINE

VANCOUVER—The B.C. salmon fleet has set Sept. 29 as the deadline for settlement of fall chum prices with packing companies.

If the Fisheries Association of B.C. does not agree to a price of 16 cents a pound top price the entire fleet will tie up the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union said Friday.

The companies have offered a 12-cent contract maximum.

GAS FRANCHISE APPROVED

NELSON—Nelson ratepayers voted Friday in favor of giving a 21-year franchise to the Inland Natural Gas Company and sale of the city-owned gas plant to the company.

Inland has offered to buy the city's present gas plant for $70,000 and operate it as at present until natural gas is piped into the city about November, 1957. They plan to spend about $1,000,000 in Nelson, including replacing all city mains, many of which are obsolete and broken.

YOUTH ELECTROCUTED

GRAND FORKS—Nineteen-year-old John Cutt, a construction worker, was electrocuted Thursday at Christina Lake when he left his truck to move an unconnected telephone wire off the road and received a shock from a power line that had fallen across the telephone wire during a brief storm.

GIANT PELICAN KILLED

LILLOOET—A giant pelican that had residents agog in nearby Shalalth and Selon Portage was killed Friday in a tangle with a 2,300-watt power line.

Workman George Angus found the bird's body on the ground, with a few feathers still clinging to the power line above it. There were no tags or other markings on the pelican, which had a seven-foot wingspan.

DEADLY STURGEON

SEAL CENTRE SITE

VANCOUVER—A three-man subcommittee was formed here Friday to find a location for a treatment centre for drug addicts.

Members are A. J. Harrison, town planning commission chairman; Charles Brakenridge and F. W. G. Sergeant.

Objections from 60 property owners caused the planning commission to turn down a request from the Narcotic Addiction Foundation of B.C. to convert a private home in suburban Point Grey into a treatment centre.

DEMANDS PUBLIC TRIAL

VANCOUVER—Vancouver lawyer Angelo Branca said Friday he has demanded that charges be laid against Constable Bert Maxey, who he says has been discharged from Delta police without a hearing.

Mr. Branca said he has written to Ladner police commission that unless the dismissed constable is given a proper public trial he will ask the attorney-general to act. He said he will be present at the next meeting of the commission.

GUS LAUDS VICTORIANS

Ryder to Carry On But Schedule Easier

A new schedule which will permit Gus Ryder to "carry on, but a little easier," following a Florida vacation, was revealed by the famous Toronto swimming coach in a letter to the Times today.

Mr. Ryder went to hospital in Toronto for a rest and medical check-up after his strenuous summer.

"While in hospital I received many letters from the blind and crippled youngsters, some in bed and some facing operations," Ryder wrote. "Yet they would write to me. Folks are really wonderful."

Gus also disclosed some of the philosophy behind his training of Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon.

"Toronto gave Marilyn, Cliff and me a wonderful ticker-tape reception, it was grand. However we shall never forget the Victoria reception. That medalion the city gave me is the envy of all—and it was all done so spontaneously," he said.

NEVER FORGET

"The people of Victoria will never forget."

"We wanted folks to like us for ourselves, just as we liked Victorians for the same reason. No celebrity or fame stuff, no boasting."

"All we said was, we would do our very best, even if we missed we would try again. There isn't a body of water in the world I respect as much as the Strait."

"Naturally we would have liked to do it the first time, but in sport as in life you have to keep trying."

"I knew Cliff would do it, and I knew that Cliff would fire Marilyn to do it through his example. You can see what was riding on Cliff's swim—actually two swims."

"To get Marilyn back into training after her discouraging try was tough, but putting her on Cliff's team during his swim was the answer. It worked."

"In her training on every two-hour swim, I would stop her at an hour and say: 'You're going too good. I want to save that' thus building her up for the future."

"Insisting on the Aug. 23 swim date, I knew if we waited we would not be able to hold that mental pitch. She did it, with plenty of help from Capt. Cavin, Jack Todd and everyone else in the party."

"Cliff's Atlantic City swim, a 26-mile race with Tom Parks, took it out of him for the summer. His swim of the strait, although wonderful in every way, wasn't the same Cliff Lumsdon."

"All we wanted him to do was make it. No one had made it that way so we had to be sure. However, it all turned out great. One going one way and the other, the other way, and both did it with great humility and modesty, making a host of friends."

"Stomach cramps finished Cliff in the $25,000 Brading swim (Lake Ontario)."

"A doctor's wife here said the feeling was much like labor pains in childbirth and after the hospital tests I took, I can believe her!"

"The important part of this letter is to tell you how much Mrs. Ryder and I appreciated everything at Victoria, and how wonderful folks were."

"Different places I went in Victoria for various things people refused payment, saying how much they appreciated the work we were doing."

"Dozens and dozens would stop me on the street and shake hands over it. Letters and phone calls poured in. One editor telephoned me long distance to apologize for rough criticism after the first swim."

"Our pool here is in wonderful shape, financially and otherwise, due mainly to the help of the kids who work voluntarily, and our voluntary swim monies."

"Right now I am playing hockey. Mrs. Ryder and I are planning a long Florida vacation."

"Please give our best to Denny Boyd, Les Fox and all the grand people at The Times who helped us to make this a successful swim. I have written our thanks to the City Council. It was a privilege for us to be on the Victoria team."

New Trial Asked For Killer

Evidence showed that 34-year-old Joseph Gordon could not have killed constable Gordon Sinclair in Vancouver Dec. 7 because he was not at the scene of the murder, lawyer Larry Hill argued before the B.C. Court of Appeal Friday.

Mr. Hill, counsel for Gordon, asked the court for a new trial for the condemned man who, with James Carey, 26, is scheduled to die Oct. 16 for the gun-slaying of the policeman.

Mr. Hill argued that the evidence showed Gordon was in downtown Vancouver at the time of the shooting.

FEELING UNPARALLELED

Wave of Sympathy Swelling for Drew

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—In a wave of sympathetic reaction unparalleled in the memory of Parliament Hill veterans, all that could be said by way of good about retired Progressive Conservative chieftain George Drew was being said in the capital this weekend.

The volume of favorable testimony which individuals in all walks of life were voicing was impressive. Its effect was heightened by the atmosphere of personal tragedy with which most of the discussion invested Drew's sudden and involuntary elimination from the federal political stage.

George Drew will not be remembered by this capital as a particularly successful party leader. In fact, his tenure of office has been a rather prolonged period of disappointment to the Conservative rank-and-file.

But he has been recognized as a particularly brave and indomitable fighter who could be forced by no weight of odds or severity of reverses to admit final defeat. And since Parliament Hill loves a good fighter, regardless of his political affiliation, all parties in the House of Commons have held George Drew in unqualified admiration.

Thus to Parliament Hill veterans today there seemed to be something essentially unfair in a fighter so indomitable being benched by capricious fate from a field of action where heavy odds and severe reverses had still left him so splendidly uncowed, and still able to instill high morale amongst his followers.

Another thing that this capital was finding impossible to forget today was the fact that during practically the whole of his active life—in wartime as well as in peace—George Drew had made public service his vocation.

Conservative member of parliament for Prince Albert, John Diefenbaker, will succeed George Drew as leader of the national party, it is predicted by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, for Esquimalt-Saanich.

General Pearkes will attend a meeting of the party caucus in Ottawa Oct. 1 and a meeting of the national Progressive-Conservative executive the following day.

The executive, in addition to selecting a date and place of a party convention to choose a new leader, will review Conservative policy.

"I believe Mr. Diefenbaker will be selected as the new leader," said General Pearkes. "While there may be one or two other names considered, I feel the final choice will be unanimous in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker."

Nominations will come from the convention floor, he said. There will be no recommendation from caucus or the national executive.

General Pearkes expressed his sorrow at Mr. Drew's ill health.

Blast Aboard Warship Injures U.K. Seamen

LONDON (Reuters)—The Admiralty announced that an explosion occurred Thursday in the fleet escort ship Decoy which was returning to Malta after exercises in the Mediterranean.

The ship was hit by a mine, the Admiralty said there was no suggestion of malicious damage to the 2,510-ton vessel.

So if you sincerely like the pipes, get this record and turn on the knob and you will have the pipers marching through your room. Turn it on louder and they will march down the street—as long as it isn't my street. I'll take a brass band.

By HUMPHRY DAVY

I find it difficult to understand why pipe bands are on the increase in Canada when there are so many fine brass instruments. This is no reflection on Scotsmen. I'm speaking musically.

I realize that piping is an art, but its survival must be largely attributed to tradition; certainly not to melodious sound. In my opinion, no pipe band can match a brass ensemble for entertainment or otherwise.

As I am biased, I turned the disc over to a friend for review. He assures me it is one of the finest recordings of a Canadian pipe band he has heard. The program includes famous "pipes and drums" of the 48th Highlanders of Canada.

SUCCESSFUL PREMIER

In peacetime his record had not been confined merely or even mainly to the field of criticism. Parliament Hill observers rank as possibly the most important achievement of his career the work which he carried out as premier of Ontario in spurring the province back on the road of sound government after the excesses of the latter period of the Hepburn regime.

His writings as an author upon military subjects, especially air policy, are also recognized as having had a constructive effect in their day upon strategic conceptions in the realm of national defence.

In addition, political circles here pay unanimous tribute to the courtesy, generosity, and the greatness of character of the retired PC leader. George Drew was incapable of pettiness in his personal relations, and refused to carry political bitterness outside of the House of Commons.

In brief, this capital has had more successful party leaders, but few more versatile, more genuinely public-minded, or whom it has respected more for his innate personal qualities.

The wave of regret marking his retirement today assumed the proportion of a genuine capital-wide mourning.

LPP Tells Peiping Congress Canada Will Recognize Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—A Canadian head of the three-man Canadian delegation to the congress in Peiping, Other Canadians were identified as A. A. Macleod of Toronto and Tom McEwen of Vancouver, both officials of the party.

Macleod is a member of the Labor Progressive party's national executive and McEwen is editor of the Pacific Tribune, Vancouver, party organ on the west coast.

Peiping radio said the speaker was Leslie Morris of Toronto, national organizer of the Labor Progressive Communist party and making it necessary for him to relinquish party leadership. He said the illness was a direct result of overwork during the last parliamentary session.

Deceased Oak Bay candidate for the legislature, Justin Harbord said, "Mr. Drew contributed a great deal to the political life of Canada and every Canadian should be proud of him, regardless of party."

"I think one of the very sad things in politics," said Monty Drake, unsuccessful city Conservative candidate, "is that any man who has devoted so much time and effort as Mr. Drew to what he believes, should retire before his prize is in sight, if not in his grasp."

Former Conservative candidate here, A. DeB. McPhillips said in view of Mr. Drew's outstanding work, especially in the sessions of 1955-56, "The Conservative party had good reason to believe that its leader would become the next prime minister of Canada."

OTTAWA (CP)—Cases of poliomyelitis reported to the health department for the week ended Sept. 15 showed an increase of six over the previous week, the department reported today. The department said there were 35 cases in the week, including 16 paralytic, compared with 28 last week, of which 18 were paralytic.

The new cases brought to 337 the number reported so far this year. This compared with 725 cases in the corresponding period of 1955 and the five-year 1951-55 average of 2,345.

So far this year the disease has killed 17 persons, compared with 27 last year.

Bulk of the cases in the week ended Sept. 15 were in Quebec and Ontario. There were three cases in B.C.

Juvenile Law Change To Get Bonner Study

A suggestion that youths between ages of 16 and 18 who break the law be required to appear in police court rather than juvenile court will be studied by the B.C. attorney-general's department.

The law covering juveniles now assures anonymity. Names are not published in the press and juvenile police records are not admissible evidence in any later appearance in adult court. Stiffer penalties could apply.

Exemption from the law covering juveniles would be "a radical step," according to Attorney-General Robert Bonner. "We would have to be very sure before we do anything."

The suggestion, by Vancouver police chief George Archer, was endorsed here by police commissioner William J. Hamilton. He said authorities are "... far too easy" on young offenders.

Chief Archer suggested the step after an outbreak of teen-age rowdism in August in downtown Vancouver. He was also supported by Winnipeg acting police chief, David Nicholson.

The attorney-general said similar suggestions had been made earlier and the matter would be closely examined.

"We would welcome any suggestions from civic officials on how the provincial government can help," he stated.

Diefenbaker to Succeed Drew, General Pearkes Predicts

Conservative member of parliament for Prince Albert, John Diefenbaker, will succeed George Drew as leader of the national party, it is predicted by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, for Esquimalt-Saanich.

General Pearkes will attend a meeting of the party caucus in Ottawa Oct. 1 and a meeting of the national Progressive-Conservative executive the following day.

The executive, in addition to selecting a date and place of a party convention to choose a new leader, will review Conservative policy.

"I believe Mr. Diefenbaker will be selected as the new leader," said General Pearkes. "While there may be one or two other names considered, I feel the final choice will be unanimous in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker."

Nominations will come from the convention floor, he said. There will be no recommendation from caucus or the national executive.

General Pearkes expressed his sorrow at Mr. Drew's ill health.

Huge Crowd Expected to Hear Famed U.K. Evangelist Sunday

Preparations are being made on a grand scale today for the opening rally of the Inter-Church Evangelistic Mission at Memorial Arena Sunday at 7.30 p.m.

Some 70 ministers of Protestant churches were meeting with evangelist Tom Rees at Metropolitan United Church this afternoon to make final plans for the mission.

B.C. Electric Company announced extra buses will be provided on at least five routes Sunday night to handle huge crowds expected to turn out for the community service.

Local clergy of Protestant churches will interrupt their morning services to ask church owners in the congregation to "give a lift" to those on foot. Evening services in all churches participating will be cancelled.

"Doors will open at the arena at 6.30 p.m. There will be no admission charge but a collection will be taken "to defray the cost of the mission," said public relations counsel Richard Welch.

27 Choirs

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will open the rally with a prayer and then introduce evangelist Rees. Choirs of 27 churches will take part in the congregational singing.

The following message was issued today to the people of Victoria and surrounding districts by mission co-chairmen Archbishop Sexton and Dr. F. E. H. James, Metropolitan United Church:

"We desire at this time to extend, on behalf of over 70 Christian churches in these communities, a most cordial invitation to attend and participate in the Inter-Church Evangelistic Mission about to commence in our city.

"Thousands of men and women and young people have been praying for weeks for the success of this mission.

Prayers Answered

"We are confident that these prayers will be most abundantly answered."

"In one very real sense, the thrilling experience of such a diversity of expression laboring and praying together with one goal in mind, has been a very happy response to a most earnest prayer.

"We earnestly ask you to join with us all in prayer and active participation in the mission.

"Tom Rees, our evangelist, brings with him a background of great deeds for the Lord and a most persuasive voice on behalf of the Christian Gospel.

"The theme of the mission is 'Know Christ—And Make Him Known.'"

"An illustration widely used in commending the mission to the public has been a picture entitled 'Fishers of Men.' We are reminded that there is no closed season for fishers of men."

"With this thought uppermost in our minds, with confidence that the Holy Spirit has so far been guiding us all in prayerful preparation for this mission, and that He will continue to lead and further our efforts to evangelize our community, we, with love and fellowship in our hearts, extend to all persons within reach of our words, an invitation to join us in witnessing for Christ during this mission."

"May God prosper our efforts and may He bless you all."

PREMIER $15,000

Pay Increase For Cabinet Seen in '57

Salary increases for members of the provincial cabinet and Premier W. A. C. Bennett may be acted at the first session of the new legislature.

A boost in cabinet minister's pay from $7,500 to $10,000, and $100 to $15,000 for the premier, is believed likely.

Also possible is an increase in the $2,000 expenses paid to the leader of the Opposition, Robert Riddell.

Opposition members strongly urged an increase in ministers' salaries at the last session of the house.

First session of the new 25th legislature is expected to be held early in the new year.

Premier Bennett had stated before Wednesday's election a fall session might be called to implement recommendations of the new Forestry Commission.

However, it is now believed that Premier Bennett has decided against such action.

SHUNS EMOTIONALISM

Rational Approach Evangelist's Rule

By TONY DICKASON

Most people are converted without tears.

Sensible persons who are mature do no wall and gnash teeth, evangelist Tom Rees said here today.

"Emotion should never be worked up for emotionalism's sake," said the British evangelist, here for a week-long evangelical campaign in various churches and two rallies slated for the Memorial Arena.

As an evangelist, he defined himself: "An evangelist is a man who preaches the good news of Jesus Christ. He is a man who has the gift of being able to precipitate a spiritual crisis in another man's life."

Aged 45, an evangelist for 20 years, he said there is a real "danger" when emotionalism is used as the basis for religion.

"It must be sane," he said of religious beliefs, "though there is room for a certain amount of emotion from the heart, as well as instruction for the mind."

A pleasant, humble and good looking man, he backs away from the title "rev. erend."

Said he: "I'm just Mr. Rees. It's more friendly."

Evangelism today in Great Britain is having a resurgence, he said, particularly among miners and factory workers.

"Nobody has approached them since the days of John Wesley."

He Delivers 'No New Messages' in Sermons

There is a "continuing field" for evangelism in Great Britain, said the man who has filled the Royal Albert Hall at least 50 times.

In his address, Mr. Rees takes various messages of the Christian faith but preaches "no new messages. I just tell the story the churches are proclaiming."

His visit here is sponsored by 70 churches throughout the Greater Victoria area.

He calls his sermons "a re-statement of facts."

"I have no movement as such, no badges, no magazines. My message is simple, 'Know Christ.'"

TEXAS BANS PRO-NEGRO GROUP

'Persecution Era' Protest Victims

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The state attorney general asked and got Friday a court order aimed at putting the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People out of business in Texas.

District Judge Otis T. Dunagan of Smith County ordered the NAACP to stop all operations in Texas, to file no more school integration suits, and to collect no more money until a hearing Sept. 28.

"We allege that the NAACP has exceeded the bounds of propriety and law and have asked that they not be allowed to operate in this state," Attorney General John Ben Shepperd said in a statement.

"I know many Texans will be stunned by the import of our evidence. I urge a calm and patient attitude."

Governor Allan Shivers, who called out the Texas Rangers to stop recent racial disturbances at Mansfield High School, had no comment.

ERA OF PERSECUTION

Dr. H. Boyd Hall, state NAACP president, said the attorney-general's move showed that Negroes in Texas are entering an era of persecution.

Virginia Blockade

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Virginia general assembly early today passed Governor Thomas B. Stanley's entire package of legislation to block mixing of the races in any public school of the state.

Pegged to the governor's watchword of "unyielding resistance" to the United States Supreme Court school desegregation order, the program sets up a legal maze for the state to follow.

The body of Wayne Mallette, who arrived here Saturday with his parents and three brothers, would be automatically directed from Seeley's Bay, Ont., near the state's public school system, was found in a clump of bushes at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds early today to try to bring about voluntary segregation. Another barrier behind that would be the shutting off of state funds for local school support.

How all this legislative package will stand up under federal court test was not suggested by the governor.

New Budget Surplus Hits $344,700,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The government creased revenues for the five-chalked up a $14,300,000 budgetary month period to $2,017,800,000 from surplus in August, boosting the $1,674,300,000.

Finance Minister Harris reported Friday in his monthly treasury statement that the August surplus compares with an $18,000,000 deficit in the corresponding month a year ago. The five-month figure was more than three times the $114,000,000 surplus in the same period of 1955.

Mr. Harris also reported that the government's old-age pension fund went into the red by $3,100,000 in the month.

Last April the finance minister forecast a surplus of $113,000,000 for the current fiscal year. But government informants forecast last month that the actual surplus from Canada's expanding economy may be closer to $300,000,000.

Boosted by higher collections in corporation and personal income taxes, revenues in August rose to $404,300,000 from $342,000,000 in the same month in 1955. This in-

Mr. Drew Steps Down

MR. DREW'S RETIREMENT from the leadership of the Conservative Party, particularly the reason for that retirement, is cause for regret to Canadians of all political persuasions.

The distinguished former soldier who turned statesman has earned respect and esteem far beyond the limits of his own party. He is recognized as a Canadian of stature, of courage, integrity and ability. Public life in this country will be poorer for his departure from it.

Misgivings about Mr. Drew's health had seemed to be dispelled when he returned to his duties as Opposition Leader.

Political friend and foe alike were happy to see him apparently restored to vigor. That estimate of his physical resources was evidently premature.

It is to be hoped that relief from the arduous duties he undertook will help him to regain his energies and give to him many more useful and enjoyable years.

Mr. Drew steps down from his important post following a career of outstanding public service that began shortly after he was wounded in 1916 and invalided home. From the position of alderman in Guelph, where he was born, he proceeded to the mayoral chair, filled various other official and semi-official offices and assumed leadership of the Ontario Conservative Party in 1938.

Provincially he led the Conservatives to power, a tall, soldierly figure, engaging in address, endowed with the ability to establish confidence—a fitting person to assume the premiership of the province when his party took office. Since his withdrawal from the provincial sphere to leadership of his party's parliamentary group in Ottawa, in 1948, he has known both success and failure.

He was not able to bring his party to power in two federal general elections, nor has he been immune to criticism within its ranks. Yet, in his leadership of the filibuster aimed against granting special powers to the Government last year he had greatly enhanced his prestige and that of Conservatives generally.

This same sort of spirit characterized his opposition on the pipeline debate, which proved a considerable embarrassment to the Government and made coast-to-coast headlines for many weeks. This was a task in which the duties of Her Majesty's loyal opposition captured the imagination of the nation.

Perhaps, in the greater leisure enforced upon him, he may find time to resume his writing, adding further to the informative contributions he has made on the Canadian army both in magazines and in book form.

Whatever his future activities, the immediate wishes of Canadians generally will be for his speedy return to good health.

Spotlight on a School Experiment

THE ANNOUNCEMENT BY DR. J. F. K. English, assistant deputy minister of education, that British Columbia is considering a special high school course that would end at Grade 10 focuses attention on an important experiment conducted here.

The proposed course, two years shorter than the standard, would be geared to the needs of a special category of student.

"It may," says Dr. English, "be the answer to the problem represented by the student who seems to gain little or nothing from the regular high school curriculum."

At S. J. Willis Junior High that type of course has actually been in operation for the last year or two. It is conducted for students unable to cope with advanced studies and seeks to give them as much basic training as they can absorb.

The success, educationally, of the plan is attested by the assistant deputy's announcement. The broader approval of the plan is indicated by the reaction of parents. Those who have been advised to enrol their children in the special course have generally recognized its merits.

The S. J. Willis experiment has been limited to junior high school, ending at Grade 9. The addition of one more year to the terminal course is suggested on two grounds. In the first place, children going through Grade 9 are usually in the 14 to 15 year age group. It is difficult to find jobs for them when they are that young. At 16 their chances are better.

Moreover, if the terminal course was extended to first year in high schools, the latter institutions might have greater facilities to give the students a chance to learn practical skills.

At all events, the trial course conducted in the Victoria school has shown the advantages of a new approach to helping boys and girls who, as Dr. English says, "seem to get little or nothing from the regular high school curriculum." It is fitting them more adequately for the life they face. And the encouraging fact should be noted that some of Victoria's employers have found these children quite competent for particular types of work.

Is the Lock-Up That Bad?

VICTORIANS CAN HAVE little inclination to pamper prisoners placed in the city jail.

At the same time if facilities are so bad that two convicts asked to be returned to their death cells on the Mainland rather than spend more time in the lock-up, the civic authorities should look over the jail accommodation.

Certainly no one expects luxury hotel standards in jail. But it is a principle of our law that a person is presumed innocent until he is proved guilty. Anyone detained pending judgment should be allowed reasonable physical comfort. If the conditions in the lock-up are such that he is subjected to physical distress, then the community has just cause to feel ashamed.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Maria Lawson—A Full Life of Service

THIS little story is about a frail and gentle woman whose kindness and helpfulness won her a firm place in the hearts of thousands of Victorians.

She was Maria Lawson, school teacher, historian and newspaper woman whose move from her birthplace in Prince Edward Island to Victoria was a great gain for our city.

Maria Lawson was a daughter—the eldest—of Henry Lawson and a granddaughter of Sir William Lawson, first president of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Her sisters were Mrs. John F. Norris and Miss Flora and Miss Ellen Lawson, both of whom were teachers.

Her father, like so many other Prince Edward Islanders, was also a teacher but tore up his Maritime roots to come west and arrived at Vancouver on the first Canadian Pacific train to cross the continent.

He apparently lost very little time in the noisy settlement on Burrard Inlet and soon made his way to the capital. Here he met D. W. Higgins who persuaded him to assume editorship of the Colonist.

At Girls' Central

So it was about 70 years ago that Maria Lawson found an avocation in training the young minds of girls at the old Girls' Central School. How many women today owe a debt of gratitude to the little teacher one shall never know but some of the spirit and toughness of fibre that was in her must surely have spread, like a beneficent leaven, to a great many thousands.

But it was not nearly enough for Maria Lawson to simply pass her working hours in teaching.

She was early seized with a conception of the magnificence of her adopted province and set herself the task of writing a history of Canada and then of British Columbia. Incidentally the history of B.C. contained a geography of the province written by Mrs. Henry Essex Young who, as Miss Watson, had also been a Victoria school teacher.

These books became textbooks for use in all public schools in the province.

Now it is possible that Maria found the circumscribed life of teaching too constricted for her catholicity of interests because after middle life, when retirement and ease seemed to beckon, she launched a new career. She became women's page editor of the Colonist, in which capacity she was able to assist all sorts of women's groups in their activities.

Children's Page

Then she began to slow down in her conventional activities and took over the children's page which gave scope to her love of writing the beautiful vignettes that so many will still remember.

It was something to see this aged and lovely little woman playing a role in the smoke-filled and paper-littered editorial rooms of the old Colonist building. And I think it is not too much to say that she won the hearts of the hard-boiled crew who prowled Victoria's streets like nighthawks on their various news-hunting errands.

Among these would be Charlie Shaw and John Shaw, Dick Diespecker and John Hickey.

These are only a very few whose names fall into my mind—there are dozens more.

As Our Readers See It

Victoria Drivers

Regarding the habits of car drivers in Victoria, there are two things that stand out like the proverbial sore thumb to the visitor.

One being that Victorians don't seem to realize that it is possible to drive on the right side of the road. They all get way over in the middle and stay there whether they intend to make a right-hand turn, left-hand turn or go straight ahead. So that one eventually has to pass them on the right or swing way over into the path of oncoming traffic.

The second being that an awful lot of them don't appear to know what it means when they see a sign that says "Stop. I am sure I have acquired several new grey hairs as a result of one of these drivers shooting out of a side road at me!

"VISITOR"

Naval Guns

Today (20 September) the Navy showed a callous indifference to the people who support it, by firing their big guns so closely that houses in Oak Bay were shaken badly.

We thought on Transit Road our ceilings were coming down. Invalids were shocked. Night workers were robbed of their rest. Surely the Pacific is large enough with sparsely populated shores to make it unnecessary to have this firing take place so close to thickly populated areas.

No Santa

How any folk could pass up Brock (Santa Claus) Chisholm! Victoria needs him badly.

Did the Navy have a vote? Of course being abroad so much on World Organizations he was not too well known in Victoria.

I'm glad the disgraceful talks are over.

Whirling in Agony

Your Wednesday issue carried the story of the Sacred meeting held on Tuesday night, where the woman candidate wished for a member of her sex that she might write in agony.

In spite of this un-Christian outburst, over eight thousand voted for her on election day. One wonders what our young people will think of this; she has spoken of "juvenile delinquency." How can her statement help such a situation. As a prairie school-teacher is this the ideal she taught the Alberta children? I am told this woman belongs to a local church. If so, I hope her minister will have the courage to denounce this terrible "hope."

Thank God for her defeat, and that this lovely city has a real Victorian in George Gregory to represent us in the Legislature.

They Will Triumph

May I, through your columns, extend my thanks to those who honored me by voting in my favor.

Such confidence is not only most gratifying to me personally, but shows that my native city still contains a sizeable group of people who are not afraid to stand up and be counted.

Loyalty to principle and the courage to express convictions are virtues which seem to be temporarily forgotten in these times of political instability, but it is very certain that in the end they will triumph.

A few more elections and a few more speeches like the Rev. Billy Hills made from the Liberal platform, and the average citizen through disgust will turn to Shaw, when he proclaims...

Close-Knit Family

It was a close-knit, happy family, and I remember the house resounding to the joyous clamor of healthy and happy youngsters, and the four sisters living in a pleasant adult affinity.

As she approached her ninth decade Maria moved to a nursing home where, surrounded by her beloved books, she was warmed by a stream of visitors who kept her in touch with so many aspects of life in the city she loved.

At 90, she read Bruce Hutchison's book, "The Unknown Country" and then gave it to George Norris with the injunction to read it thoroughly.

So in the fullness of time she died having seen so much fulfillment in her life and, although she may not have known it, leaving all those who came within the orbit of her influence richer for the experience.

I must acknowledge an inaccuracy in a piece I wrote about Jan St. Clair. It was not his sister, but his wife who devoted her life to him.

CALL FOR THE FIDDLERS THREE

By TOM MERRIMAN

When Grandpa Rocked Around the Clock

LOOKING over a clipping the other day about grandfathers and a sixty-fifty rock and roll birthday party, it seems to me the merits or otherwise of rock and roll got lost in the shuffle.

However it has been covered by another columnist in his piece "Yes We Have No Bananas."

But think of the songs that were leading the hit parade, or at least used to be top raters, around the family piano a decade before these young writers were born.

Take "My Grandfather's Clock" for instance. It will be grandfathers who are likely to be asked to explain it to the small fry if some sentimentalists get nostalgic around Christmas time and call for "one of those great old-timers" to be played.

Let's start with the first line. "My Grandfather's clock was too tall for the shelf so it stood ninety years on the floor."

Where Else?

There's a masterpiece of profundity if you ever heard one! Can you picture anyone trying to put a seven or eight foot grandfather's clock anywhere else but on the floor even allowing for the massive homes they built in those days?

"It was taller by half than the old man himself though it weighed not a penny weight more."

Granted, this man had reached maturity, but he was a comfortable old age and physical ease. But even so, what a terrific diet problem! The grouse seasons, the partridge seasons must have arrived. Someone on occasions must have shot a stag or brought in a big salmon. Think of the temptation grandfather was up against, especially if he was a good trencherman. A luscious haunch of venison and no second helpings! "No Priscilla. Do not tempt me with your savouries. Remember the clock. Not a penny weight difference must there ever be!" he would reprove the serving maid.

No Nervous Nellies

"It was bought on the morn of the day that he was born."

That's a quote to show the different material men were made of in those days from the men of today. In those days they didn't drive their wives away to hospital and walk up and down, up and down, chain smoking cigarettes while awaiting the big news. No sire! They were made of sterner stuff. They got in the family doctor, some midwives and maids and had a "do-it-yourself" job right on the premises.

You can picture the scene in the baronial mansion. The father of the famous grandfather who owned the clock sat by a great log fire in his study far away from the scene, calmly smoking his clay pipe and sipping his port.

In the small hours of the morning by which time he was probably on his second or third bottle, a maid came in and curtsied. "Sire, your first born has arrived."

We take the liberty of dragging in a few quotes in the interest of presenting a historically accurate picture of an event made famous in a song a hundred years ago.

Well, you see the old man, that's a big one.

Summoning a coachman and two or three grooms he dashed out in the dim grey morn, rattled on the door of a sleeping clocksmith, and did just that. With his mission accomplished he rang the bell to summon the maid again.

"It was a boy I suppose?"

"Yes, sire."

"Jolly good, give everybody an extra mug of mead at breakfast."

Then the immortal song goes on to say:

"(The grandfather's clock) was always his pleasure and pride."

But it stopped short never to go again.

When the old man died."

Sitdown Strike

There's a sit down strike if you ever heard of one. There's something to explain to grandchildren. It may be easy to compromise and say Elvis Presley all right and "Nothin' but a Hound Dog is a pretty slick platter."

Note:

The explanation for the father's action in dashing out to buy the grandfather's clock is perfectly simple. Merriman is confused or lacking in logic. It was merely that the baby (later the grandfather of the song) was to be placed on schedule feeding from the day of his birth and the home was short of timepieces. As for the line, "It stopped short never to go again when the old man died," this too could possibly well be explained by a psychiatrist. A premonition of death, quite natural ninety, all the grandfather's childhood repressions against scheduled feedings were rekindled. So when he wound clock for the last time he quivered, the works he made were none of his descendants should suffer as he suffered as a baby.

COMMENT FROM WASHINGTON By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSO

Odds Shifting in Nasser's Favor

THE odds against a shooting war in the Middle East are now quoted rather high in official circles. But while the odds on shooting have been going down, the odds that Egyptian dictator Gamal Abdel Nasser will get away with his contemptuous challenge to the Western powers have been going sharply up.

The British, according to the official word, have all but promised not to fire the first shot. And if the British don't fire the first shot, so the reasoning runs, no one else will, least of all Col. Nasser.

Actually, British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden has not given Secretary of State John Foster Dulles any flat and formal commitment not to use force against Egypt. But all their conversations, during the current London meeting, have been based on the assumption that shooting must be avoided, which almost amounts to the same thing.

Ready to Use Force

By contrast, on his first trip to London after the Suez crisis started, Dulles found the British willing and even eager to use force against Nasser. The British reasoned that Nasser must at all costs be taught a lesson. Otherwise his open defiance of the Western powers would be followed by more of the same all over the Middle East, disastrously jeopardizing vital Western interests throughout the area.

Dulles' main accomplishment, in all his comings and goings since Nasser seized the Suez Canal Company, has been to persuade the reluctant and skeptical British that Nasser could be taught his lesson without a shot being fired. The Dulles' version of how this might be done may be authoritatively outlined about as follows:

First, the shipping of the major maritime nations is to be diverted round the Cape, thus reducing the Suez Canal to a "dry ditch" and weakening Nasser's bargaining power. This was, of course, the real purpose of the Dulles-Eden proposal of a "users' association" to control canal operations—no one seriously expected Nasser to accept the proposal.

Second, economic pressures are to be brought to bear on Egypt, and these measures will in turn increase both the internal and external pressure on Nasser to make a reasonable settlement of the canal dispute. When they begin to feel the pinch, it was argued, the small but internally powerful class of Egyptian merchants and businessmen will be eager for a settlement.

So will Nasser's oil-producing Arab allies, whose oil revenues will be sharply cut. So will other countries on whose support Nasser counts. Eighty per cent of India's trade, for example, is normally routed through the canal, carried largely in British bottoms, and a settlement will then be very much in India's interest.

Under such internal and external pressures, Nasser is to be brought to a reasonable frame of mind, and he—or conceivably a successor—will ultimately accept the minimum Western terms. These terms boil down to some form of international participation in the operation of the canal. Thus Nasser, according to the Dulles version, is to be taught his lesson without the direct application of force.

Maybe things will actually work that way. The slow erosion of economic pressure is a true, eventual, broad old Mohammed Mousaigh down, forced an acceptable settlement of Iranian oil dispute. But there are, in important differences between Iranian oil crisis and the Suez crisis.

Not So Dependent

Egypt is by no means as economically dependent on canal revenues as Iran. Moreover, Nasser can turn to the Suez bloc for help—he is already stepping trade negotiations with the Communist countries, including China. Finally, economic pressure is by no means one way.

The oil revenues the British and Iran were made up surprisingly quickly elsewhere. But with the half-payed loans from United States, economies of Britain and Western Europe will be badly hurt by a canal boycott. Economic bargaining power is certainly a Western monopoly in the dispute.

The hard fact is that the threat of force was the central element in Western bargaining power. No serious man would argue that the prospect of a little war in the Middle East ever a pleasant prospect. But with prospect fading, and the threat of virtually ruled out by the Dulles' p the chance that Nasser will get with his slap in the face for the Western powers might as well let themselves to more slaps in the face the Middle East and elsewhere.

FOUR PART SONG

The Welsh, for example, sing naturally. They sing when waiting at a station for a train. They sing at the opening or closing of a political meeting, at a lunch, at a football match, anywhere, without the least difficulty, without the least self-consciousness. Whereas an Englishman bracing himself up to sing in public is like a dog attempting to walk on its hind legs; one watches the performance with a mixture of apprehension and of pity; the Irish and the Scots regard singing as a professional matter. They admire, but they do not participate — except in church.

HANS GRUBER CONDUCTS

'Silent' Portion of Year Shapes Symphony Season

One hears comparatively little of symphony orchestras during the summer months; it is, after all, only fair to let long distance swimmers have an adequate paper space (and money!) to themselves one part of the year.

By tradition from time immemorial, autumn, winter, and early spring are the part of the year given over to organized, giving and listening.

Yet it is the "silent" part of the year—the summer—when the behind-the-scenes activities of symphony organizations are at their most crucial and even Hans Gruber feverish. For it is then that the thousand-and-one plans, details, arrangements are being organized, and it is by them that the box-office and musical results stand or fall later on.

ON TRIAL
All over the country, this is tuning-up time for symphony orchestras, and the endless, often agonizing work of many months is now on public trial, the box office being the ultimate judge.

This sketchy generalization of what symphony people do during the "off-season" holds certainly as concerns our own Victoria Symphony organization.

In laying our own plans for the approval of our Victoria public, we have continued to be guided by certain basic principles: that we here perform for audiences of true maturity, and NOT of superficial sophistication, in that they do not con-

Let its spirit watch over you through the rest of the season, and over us so that we might do such justice as is at all within our powers to all the other composers whose music will be in our tender mercies this year.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Literary Critic's Final Opus Considers Poetry of Ned Pratt

This season will be distinguished in Canadian letters by the appearance of that all too rare kind of book—an honest and distinguished piece of Canadian literary criticism. The author is John Sutherland, a literary critic of the Poetry of E. J. Pratt.

And last week, those of us who more or less labor in the not too lush vineyard of Canadian letters, were profoundly shocked to hear that John Sutherland, at the age of 37, had died after a 12-week illness, the victim of cancer.

Scott

John was my generation and there is not one among us who can claim to have made as distinguished a contribution to Canadian letters or to have served a not too popular cause so faithfully as John Sutherland. In the 15 years I knew him, I never managed to understand the dynamic which could possess a man to the extent that he would give up the chances for fame, fame and even two eggs for breakfast, for the sake of his unflinching belief that this land could and would produce great writers some day.

INSPIRED MAGAZINE

In the early days, he sparked First Statement, a rough and rowdy literary magazine in Montreal which broke idols and affirmed a belief in the creative power of Canadian youth. Later this developed—along with some help from other similar groups—into Northern Review, by far the best "little" magazine this country has ever seen.

The man behind Northern Review was John Sutherland, not just as its editor with a well-defined standard of literary excellence, but as the boy who learned to operate a printing press, to bully and cajole money for the next issue, to make his contributors stretch for an excellence which they had not thought they could ever attain. Sitting with a quart of Montreal beer at hand, waving his cigar, his moustache bristling indignantly, John Sutherland demanded more respect for Canadian writing and Canadian writers than all the rest of us put together.

It is both fitting and tragic that in the month of his premature death, his best work to date should be published.

A SERIOUS POET

The Poetry of E. J. Pratt shows how the frenetic enthusiasm of the literateur in his honage can develop into the seasoned critic of maturity without sacrificing literary integrity. Pratt has long been one of John Sutherland's enthusiasms; in his volume he shows why and he argues with great conviction. The burden of his argument is that our Ned Pratt is a very serious poet and should be taken as such. He proves that Pratt is a poet who has become aware of and has presented humanity's power to destroy and humanity's capacity for tenderness and laughter.

He calls attention to what he describes as Pratt's "powerful expression of the phantasms of the war of machines" and recognizes what I think is Ned Pratt's most important technical characteristics—"He has succeeded in fashioning a poetic instrument... that is typical at once of the heroic and of the mechanical age."

DISAGREES

I do not think that John Sutherland would think much of me (or of anybody) who did not record his honest objections to the tone and approach of this volume.

I cannot go along with the attempt which is made in this book to prove that the dominant theme in Pratt's poetry is a perhaps unconscious affirmation of the doctrine of Christian incarnation in the most literal sense.

And now, tragically, such a statement as this must be left here with only this conviction: If John Sutherland had been alive to read this he would have jumped joyously into the argument with all the fervor that made him the most important man of his generation in Canadian letters.

PUZZLES and PASTIMES

JUST USE YOUR HAT

Wags doesn't love to have mastered a few tricks which entertain and, if all goes well, baffles folks at a party? Almost any one can acquire a repertoire of them through practice.

The deft bit of magic of making a hat spin in the air is done by the stage magician with a very simple apparatus. You can duplicate it.

Cut a stick in cylindrical shape a little larger than a head and two feet long. Drive a nail into one end. Split the stick and allow it to project a quarter of an inch. File the end to a sharp point.

Take a soft hat and toss it in the air, giving it a whirl to make it spin. Then as the hat falls, catch it by the brim with the pointed stick and give it a light push upwards. The action causes the hat to spin all the faster. Each time the hat starts to descend give it another thrust with the stick, as before, it will keep on spinning. As a final gesture, flip it to drop upon your head.

YOU'RE OFF TO BE STILL

You will note, upon studying the arrangement of the figures in the four circles along each straight line in this design that the totals of the figures in the four circles around so that the sum of four circles along each straight line is the same—that the total is exactly 100. Remember, the same numbers are to be used, but they are to be rearranged.

THIS IS ON ITS WAY OUT

Warm weather generally continuous line to dot 21. This brings out the missing figure particular dotograph lends it in the scene above, whereas self well as a coloring test. How cold weather spells its doom, neatly and artistically can you first take a guess as to what it fill it in? Remember, you are is, then draw the outline by to guess what's missing before starting at dot 1 and drawing a filling it in.

"Everyone at the meeting was enthusiastic about opposing trading stamps as a dangerous and unethical commercial practice."

TRIPLE FEATURE OF THE TRACK

Friday scored second victory. Right, owner-trainer Len Lucas leads in winners at the meeting with six. Meeting continues next week with first post daily at 2.45. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Len and Jimmy Prove Tough Pair to Beat

Lucas Saddles Sixth Winner At Sandown

By BILL WALKER
The present Sandown race meeting could well be called the Len Lucas stakes. Certainly jockey Jimmy Broomfield and the three-year-old bay colt Noahluade should agree, as they draw big assists for this conception.

Lucas Friday saddled his sixth winner in Noahluade who scored his second straight triumph of the meeting. Broomfield, top hardboot, was up on the speedy colt which set a new track mark for the mile, a crackling 1.40, to register his 10th trip to the winners' enclosure.

It was a tight squeeze for Noahluade though, with Flash Bet a capable second as Ted Buttons, the leader entering the stretch, bled and was eased up.

MORE PICTURES

Favorites and form again predominated while the camera was needed for three of the seven races, which caused one official to remark:

"At this rate, we'll have more pictures here before we have had in the Vancouver meeting."

Certainly the competition has been good—better than last year—and the overall class an improvement.

Most of all was an easy winner in the first: Some Doings barely held off a closing drive by Ardell to take the second, and Silvery Sin was a half-length victor over Song Time in the third. All were well fancied choices.

The public choice Fast Day breezed home easily in the fourth, and the favored Last Ostris came with a rush to nip High Justice and The Eel in the mile and 70-yard fifth.

Sun Boy, a chestnut gelding of eight years, proved his class in the seventh with a half-length victory over Sea Lad and the quinnella return, with the favored Wentaway finishing fourth, was a handy $26.60.

Some Doings and Ardell combined for a quinnella of $30.60 in the second.

WAGERING UP

Wagering was up Friday for a 16 per cent increase over the same day last year, the meeting to date showing a rise of 4 per cent over last year. Association officials said earlier that a 20 per cent increase would be needed in order for the meeting to be a financial success.

Last year, it will be recalled, the association lost heavily on the first return of the sport here in eight years.

Post time next week has been moved up to a 2.45 start. Friday's form chart will be found on page 27.

CHARLIE'S DEBUT OKAY

Tars Sharper Than Vamps

Navy 17, Vampires 12
By BILL RAYNER

Navy is in second place in the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football Union standings today, but the route there wasn't exactly easy.

Friday night at Athletic Park, the sailors dumped Vampires 17-12, in a game that had a little of everything, happen, including a few "boners" by mixed-up players on both teams.

Navy coach Frank Hindle put it rather nicely after the game when talking about Navy's clash with undefeated Oak Bay Drakes next Friday: "We make mistakes against the Drakes like we did out there tonight and they will really be rough on us," he said. "We won't be able to relax a minute against them."

Friday night, Navy relaxed at some of the oddest moments, but were much less in a stupor than several Vampire players. Five times the Vampires were a man short with play under way on the field. Navy was only guilty of this error in basic mathematics once.

CHARLIE PLEASES COACH

What pleased Hindle most, however, not to mention the rest of the Navy squad and the pro-vamp rosters, was the performance of rookie quarterback Charlie Thomas.

Thomas played most of the offensive game at quarter, and displayed a fine budding knowledge of the option play and keeper play and established himself immediately as a dangerous, almost Jackie Parker-like runner.

He engineered Navy's first touchdown, by which they went ahead to stay 7-5. In the third quarter, and whipped the sailors to their clinching major in the final period.

In between, as the crowd of over 1,000 watched fascinated, Navy-quarter Bud Brown, who took over briefly in the third, successfully called for a 39-yard field goal.

For Vampires, described by coach Ray Mitchell as "trying hard during the game, but with just not enough strength," the standout was Charlie Bishop, who ate up most of the losers' yards along the ground.

He was helped tremendously by a key block by Henderson at his own 40 that opened up weird plays and lively action a vital hole.

Billy Masters Wind, Goes Four Under Par

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—The wind was a major factor in scoring today as Billy Masters of Odessa, Tex., led a reduced field of 70 golfers into the third round of the $15,000 Oklahoma City golf tournament.

Maxwell, 27-year-old former North Texas State College star who has won over $15,000 in the professional touring circuit this season, toured the 25-mile, an-hour wind-swept Twin Hills Country Club course Friday with a four-under-par 68. That score coupled with a 70 in the first round gave him a 36-hole total of 138.

The first day leader, Bob Toki of Holyoke, Mass., fell behind with a 38-35—75 for a two-day total of 143.

At Balding of Toronto, qualified with a 71-73—143.

Hot on Maxwell's trail today was course professional Jimmie Gault, back one stroke at 139. Gardner Dickinson, Panama City, Fla., who learned most of his golf from Ben Hogan, and Bill Casper, Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., 1952 Labatt Open winner, were tied for third place with 140.

Back at 141 were Bill Nary, Wayne, Mich.; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Bud Ecton of Oklahoma City.

Canadian Girl Gains U.S. Amateur Finals

INDIANAPOLIS (CP)—Canada's Marlene Stewart turns her battering-ram game against the willowy conqueror of the defending champion today in the final of the U.S. Women's Amateur.

Marlene, a poker-faced bundle of energy under iron control, beat off the morning against Joanne Gunderson, a tall, 17-year-old, 17-year-old who had been the baby of a tournament dominated by youth from start to finish.

Victory for Marlene would give Canada its first native-born U.S. women's champion. Victory for her opponent from Kirkland, Wash., would give the tournament its youngest champion in 60 years.

A gay nineties golfer named

Beatrice Hoyt holds the youth record. She was three months younger than Joanne. It was when she won the women's title in 1910 but she had taken it the year before while playing under British colors and later she moved to the U.S. and won a third time.

Marlene, just 22 herself, whetted her appetite for the final with a teenage victim while Joanne knocked the last over-30 player out of the tournament.

Wind No Problem to Marlene

Marlene defeated 18-year-old Anne Quast of Everett, Wash., 4 and 3 with a game which was unbelievably steady about the greens despite the strong south wind which rattled her opponent.

Joanne, whose booming drives and whiplash swing caught the fancy of the gallery, did not sail so smoothly. But she proved she can survive pressure by calmly knocking in a five-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to defeat veteran Iowan, Mrs. Ann Casey Johnston, 1 up after seeing a three-hole lead evaporate on the back nine.

Miles Quast won the first hole from Marlene, pride of Fonthill, Ont., but lost the second and fourth and never drew even again. Marlene took the lead by holing a 55-foot chip shot from the edge of the fourth green and was still up after Anne won the 11th with a 35-foot putt.

Bamford Aids T-Men In Mann Cup Finals

Wipper Out; Third Game Set Tonight

TORONTO (CP)—The coaches will be done strictly from the bench tonight when Nanaimo Timbermen and Peterborough Trailers meet in the third game of the Mann Cup championship series. Both teams are in the fight and due to get into the ring in the best-of-seven series in the Canadian senior lacrosse crown, learned Friday night they will be without the playing services of coach Harry Wipper. He suffered torn knee ligaments in last Wednesday's game and is out for the season.

BAMFORD FLIES IN

Wipper will be replaced in the lineup by Bill Bamford of Victoria Shamrocks. Bamford was expected to arrive here by plane today. Timbermen officials had said here they did not think they could afford to bring a replacement in from the west coast, but the British Columbia Lacrosse Association made arrangements to send Bamford in time for tonight's game.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo officials protested to the Canadian Lacrosse Association over a replacement for Hildebrand. Timbermen, who won the first game 15-13 and the second 10-9, claim Hildebrand, who limped out of the second game with the muscle troubles, actually suffered the injury in the Eastern Canada playoffs.

According to C.L.A. rules a third replacement can be made only under special circumstances if a player is injured in the series being played.

Arthur Brown of St. Catharines, Ont., C.L.A. president, allowed Peterborough to use Doug Smith of the Hamilton Burners as a substitute for Hildebrand tonight.

Wipper said the protest was lodged because Trailermen used their replacement quota when they brought up Max Woolley and Ross Powles of Burners, the team Peterborough eliminated in the Eastern Canada final.

"Hildebrand was not injured last Wednesday though he may have aggravated an injury," Wipper said.

"He suffered the injury in the Hamilton - Peterborough playoff. Since the prime injury was not in the Mann Cup, the emergency ruling allowing them a third substitution does not apply."

Nanaimo president Doug Rafter said Peterborough "flim-flammed the C.L.A. into granting them Powles" as a replacement for a player who did not play a game for Peterborough.

Rafter said the player signed prior to the final signing date and "it would appear that Peterborough got him for one reason only and that was to pull a fast trick should they make the Canadian final."

Apart from Hildebrand, Trailermen will also have to do without Bobby Thorpe, suspended for two games by the C.L.A. for alleged deliberate jumping of a referee Wednesday.

Sal May Get His Chance But Bob Appears Lost

United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

If Brooklyn wins the National League pennant, veteran Sal Maglie at least will have a chance to realize an ambition which now is beyond the realm of possibility for another "old pro" named Bobby Feller.

Maglie has had two shots at a series triumph, losing one game in 1951 and being taken off the hook in one 1954 appearance. He'll get a chance to make "my greatest ambition" come true if the Brooks make the grade. But Feller's chances apparently are gone.

Feller lost two games in the 1948 classic, one a real heart-breaker, and he sat glumly on the sidelines throughout the 1954 series. Tempus fugit and so does the memory of Feller's famed fast ball, but Maglie "cools" seem to hang on forever.

Speaking of the world series, did you know that the losers received more money than the winners in the 1889 classic? The losing Brooklyn players earned $389 each while the winning New York

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR ROOKIE BALL STAR

BALTIMORE (UP)—Little hope was held today for Tom Gastall, the Baltimore Orioles' $40,000 bonus catcher who disappeared Thursday night over Chesapeake Bay in his single-engine plane.

The Coast Guard reported it recovered a red cushion southeast of Annapolis and said "it is likely" it came from Gastall's plane.

Gastall, a 23-year-old athlete from Fall River, Mass., radioed Thursday night that he was crash-landing his Aerocoupe in the water. Gastall is married and the father of a 15-month-old child.

'Now I Number Two' Says Happy Miguel

DETROIT (UP)—"Now I think I No. 2," stocky Miguel Berrios said today in making his claim for a shot at featherweight champion Sandy Saddler following Friday night's victory over Ike Chestnut.

GOLF CHAMP

Mrs. H. G. Mearns defeated Mrs. S. Weston, 3 and 2, Friday to win the Victoria Golf Club ladies' championship. Mrs. Mearns entered the final by defeating Mrs. J. Robbins, while Mrs. Weston disposed of Mrs. Harold Husband in the other semifinal.

Leafs Romp Over Wings

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Toronto's Maple Leafs, who set quite a few records during the regular International League campaign, are now on the verge of breaking several playoff records after Friday night's 14-1 romp over the Red Wings.

The Leafs, reputed to be one of the greatest collections of stars in the history of the loop, smashed 15 hits, including four homers, off the serves of Rochester starter-loser "Cotton" Deal and Gary Geiger.

Walking Record

MELBOURNE (UP)—Australian Ted Allopp, 32, broke the world hour-walking record on the Olympic Park track today, covering 16 miles 401 yards and two inches.

Allopp eclipsed the previous world mark of 16 miles 126 yards set by Russia's A. Vedjakov at Moscow, Oct. 7, 1953.

Britain's Chris Brasher, aiming at the Olympic 3,000-meter steeplechase crown, is making the lightest pair of running shoes in the world with the welt of kangaroo leather and spikes of titanium, which costs $70 a pound. The shoes will weigh only three and one-half ounces and, Brasher contends, over 3,000 meters this will mean he will be lifting 50 pounds less than with ordinary shoe...

Bob Long of the Detroit Lions cautions rookie grid players not to rub the veterans the wrong way. In his first game, against the Philadelphia Eagles, he scoffed at a rival lineman who introduced himself as the "best tackle in the league."

"Then he proved it," Long laughs ruefully. "On the first play he knocked me cold."

Thelma Hopkins of Belfast, who will represent Great Britain in the Olympic high jump, is being touted as most likely to break the six-foot barrier among women. She reportedly has cleared five feet, nine inches in practice. Her parents claim they noted her athletic ability when she was only two years old—probably when she popped pop with a popsicle...

Novelty Bonspiels Mark Season Opening

Victoria Curling Club, with the opening of its season only a few weeks away, has scheduled two novelty bonspiels with which to get the roaring game off in sweeping fashion.

First there will be a Novelty Open Bonspiel for anybody who wants to curl, with names being drawn out of a hat to determine rink personnel. This will run from Oct. 12-17.

Following this will be a Novelty Closed Bonspiel, open to club members only, and it will be followed by the season club draw.

The club has had a membership drive on for the past few weeks, but are still welcoming any young curlers who want to take up the game.

Youngsters under 18 can curl regularly during the winter for a $20 membership fee. Memberships are being accepted at the club.

Laycoe Gets Juniors; Tony To Edmonton

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hal Laycoe, general manager and coach of New Westminster Royals in the Western Hockey League, arrived here from a visit to Detroit Red Wings' training centre in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., with a promise of three unidentified young players, junior graduates.

"Otherwise the trip didn't turn up much," he said. "There just weren't enough good players there."

He said the Royals will not get Tony Laycoe, even if Laycoe doesn't stay with the Red Wings in the National Hockey League. Laycoe will go to Edmonton if he leaves the NHL, Laycoe reported.

Is Milwaukee finally going to make the breaks pay off? Is Pittsburgh about to knock Brooklyn out of the race, just as in 1954? Can Cincinnati still make it?

That's today's baseball quiz in the National League with the Braves within two percentage points of first place Brooklyn and the Redlegs only three lengths back.

The Braves, who have blown breaks like everyone else in a race marked by missed opportunities, made use of Chicago errors for a 6-1 victory over the last-place Cubs Friday night.

Pittsburgh, the club that sprung a September trap to catch Brooklyn and open the pennant door to New York's Giants in '54, was at it again, meanwhile, tripping the Dodgers 2-1 and roughing up Sal Maglie to boot.

REDS WON'T QUIT

The Redlegs, refusing to quit, made it three in a row with a 9-1 breeze over St. Louis.

Q—A pool of deep water stands near our garage in the rainy season. Since there is no storm sewer in the vicinity, how can we drain it off?—G.B.L.

A—Lay a few lengths of four-inch drain tile in a trench sloping away from the garage. The tiles should be about one-half inch apart and end at a "dry well" or a hole in the ground and filled with rocks. The well should be large enough to hold a substantial amount of water, which will disappear gradually into the ground during a rainstorm. Cover the separation between drain tiles with strips of tarpaper.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Little Fall Pruning Needed In Victoria's Mild Climate

Several requests have been received for an article on the pruning of trees and shrubs, including roses.

The word "pruning" as used here means the cutting away of a portion of the plant (1) to control its shape or habit of growth, (2) to encourage the production of more or better flowers or fruits, (3) to remove dead or diseased parts.

Some gardening books and some gardening writers suggest getting this kind of work done before the weather becomes unfavorable, but neither the books nor the writers are products of Victoria.

We may be called a little bit of oldie this or that, but when it comes to gardening we can justly claim the distinction of being entirely different, for even in the matter of annual pruning we do nothing at this time of year.

Nothing, that is, excepting to the peach and nectarine trees. These two have borne fruits this year on growths which developed last summer, and have made new growths this summer which will carry the fruits next year.

NEW SHOOTS

To prevent the trees becoming a mass of old growths and to encourage the production of new growths each season, the shoots from which the fruits have just been harvested are cut away, and if the trees are against a wall, the new shoots are tied into place for next year.

The mild weather we usually enjoy between now and Christmas is the reason no other pruning is advised at this date.

Our plants will not be entirely dormant for quite a while, and pruning is likely to stimulate growth which will be damaged and lost later on.

In this district, the last week of February is about right for pruning the fruit trees, with the exceptions noted above.

Rose pruning is a job for the last two weeks of March near salt water, and the end of March and the beginning of April further inland.

REDUCE ROSE SHOOTS

Bush roses which have produced vigorous growths four to five feet long, may have these reduced to 24 or 30 inches before the November gales damage them, but further pruning in fall is not advisable.

Shrubs which flower in early spring are pruned after they have flowered, mostly during May and early June.

Summer—and fall-flowering shrubs are worked on in early spring, usually in March and April, sometimes in late February according to the season.

They are listed in the column "Week's Work" at the appropriate time.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Evergreens Planted Now Still Growing; Need Water

By JACK BEASTALL
Q.—We are told to discontinue watering of shrubs now, in order to mature growths to withstand winter frosts. When planting balled and burlapped specimens of evergreens and heathers should water be applied?

A.—Yes: the evergreens and heathers will be doing some growing and their roots will require moisture at planting time. Deciduous, or leaf losing, trees and shrubs need no extra water if planted in moist soil during October or later while they are dormant.

Q.—Can you advise me on the sowing of flowering annual seed outdoors at this time?

A.—This is not practiced to any extent here, but it is usually worth the effort. Seed of hardy annuals such as larkspur, calendula, penstemon (though this is usually a perennial here), snapdragon, godetia, viscaria, nicotiana and others in the same class may be sown now in prepared rows outdoors. Cover with screened compost, press down lightly. Mark the rows with the names. The seed may or may not germinate this fall, according to the weather, but sufficient seedlings should be available next April from such a sowing for early picking out.

No one wants to shut up the "outdoor living room" any sooner than the weather dictates. But that doesn't mean that all the preparations need to be deferred until snow falls. Armed with garden hose, a pail, sponges and soap and a willing helper or two, a few hours of work spaced for convenience will do the trick.

Outdoor furniture which has been wiped off during summer use should have a thorough washing topside and underneath before it is stored. You don't have to wait until your fingers freeze to the sponge for this. Two or three weeks between wash and storage won't make much difference, and any dust accumulation can be flicked off.

BE THOROUGH
If you use outdoor chairs indoors in winter, you'll want to be particularly careful to remove the dust that sifts and settles under the framework and in folds of fabric. Paint jobs last longer and look better if surfaces are free of the abrasive particles.

Elaborately designed garden furniture, such as some white painted iron sets, require the use of a very soft-bristled brush to clean the crevices without marring the paint.

A warm sunny day is also a good time to give the roll-up bamboo blinds a dunking. Spread them on the grass, scrub slats and ropes and rinse with the garden hose spray. They'll dry in the sun in a hurry. The scrub-and-hose method also works well on outdoor trellises, painted stakes and pickets.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL
Remove all plants of flowering annuals which have been damaged by rain or cooler weather. Compost everything.

Rooted cuttings of tender bedding plants such as zonal geraniums should be taken into shelter, but given air during day.

Sweet peas for next year may be sown in same place as previously grown. Prepare ground well, and sow now.

Remove all house plants to indoor quarters from summering outside.

Callas and cyclamens in pots should be taken under shelter. Prepare beds and borders for planting of all spring flowering bulbs as soon as received.

Continue earthing up of celery, only when soil and plants are dry.

Order fruit, nut and ornamental trees from nurseries, and prepare for their planting next month.

Complete the trimming of hedge material.

Shorten very long growths of roses, to avoid damage to roots by wind-pull.

Versatile Aluminum
Aluminum can be rolled, forged, spun, drawn, extruded, and machined. While appealing in color as a natural metal, it can be painted or tinted.

Because of its thermal conductivity, it is ideal for cooking utensils. And although it conducts only about 60 per cent as much electricity as copper, because of its lower weight a pound of aluminum has about the same conductivity as two pounds of copper.

FREAK BERRIES
REGINA, (C.P.) Mrs. P. McTernitt says white strawberries taste better than red ones. The white berries, raised in a pot with the usual red berries, are sweet and juicy, and expert said they may be a freak or the result of cross-pollination.

Carlisle has been building his home for the past two years with the help of his wife, Leona, on a one-acre site near here about five miles from the Pennsylvania-Ohio border.

The 45-year-old one-time musician, blinded by a progressive eye ailment, devised tools to substitute for vision. He constructed a level by attaching a free-swinging metal pointer to a block of wood. When the pointer comes over a fixed nail-head, his block is at a true level, and he is able to lay his bricks with the accuracy of a professional.

Carlisle operates a power saw using an etched six-foot rule as his guide. He can hand saw and plane with the same nickel-plated rule.

'Ball-Burlap' Worth Shrubs' Extra Cost

By HENRY FREE

In leasing through nursery catalogues the term "B & B," or sometimes "B-H," is frequently seen. To the novice, the term means little except that plants so designated are higher in price than others on the list.

To the veteran plantman, it signifies that each plant so marked is dug with a ball of earth left intact about the roots, that the ball is wrapped tightly with burlap and secured with rope or other means before lifting from the hole.

B & B stock costs more, mostly because of labor. Skilled labor is required to dig and properly shape the ball and to wrap and tie it so it will not break or crack in handling.

Weight of a balled and burlapped tree, depending upon its size, ranges from a few hundred pounds up to several tons. Loading and transporting it to the planting site often requires specialized and costly equipment.

The wrapping materials are items of some expense. The tree has required growing room and maintenance in the nursery over a period of years and, thus, represents a considerable investment.

The B & B method of digging in preparation for transplanting is advantageous in that it results in a minimum of disturbance of the root system.

The roots contained within the ball remain in the close association with the soil particles that developed during the plant's growth; hence, they continue to supply the plant with soil nutrients and water without interruption.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I have always been an admirer of the "no need to" school of advertising.

You know what I mean. "No need to" advertising tells you you don't need to do the needless. "No need to suffer with old fashioned remedies when you can suffer with our new-fashioned remedy."

Well, the latest example of this type advertising is contained in a full page message for the Bayer Aspirin people. Under a photograph of a football player in full cry is a caption which reads:

"You don't have to play 60 minutes of football to get aching muscles or a backache. A little extra exertion on the job or around the house will do it."

You can imagine with what great relief I learned this news.

There have been times when I just haven't felt up to playing 60 minutes of football, even to achieve aching muscles.

Now that I know 60 minutes of football isn't necessary, I can have backaches whenever I choose, without even leaving the house.

No doubt the aspirin people would be willing to go a little farther and tell us how we can achieve many other popular ailments the easy way.

I can visualize a whole campaign built around the slogan: "No need to hit your head against the wall to get an aching head. Just a little extra concentration on the taxes you're paying will do it."

And another series of ads could feature: "You don't have to sleep in a snowbank to catch a cold. Just relaxing with your feet out the window will do it."

And, of course: "No need to throw yourself off the top of a 20-story building to break your leg. A little two-story building will often do."

It may sound immodest, but I often think the advertising business suffered an irreparable loss when I left it.

Cancer Society Plans New $100,000 Clinic

SLANDER SUIT TRIAL OPENS IN VICTORIA NEXT TUESDAY

A panel jury of 17 men has been selected by Sheriff Eric Wilkinson for a civil suit for slander instituted by James Audain against Robin Dunsmuir of Victoria, to be heard next Tuesday.

Mr. Audain, a cousin of the defendant, claims unstated damages for personal slander and damage for slander to his book, "From Coalmine to Castle," a publication issued last year.

Mr. Audain's book deals largely with the history of the Dunsmuir family who, at the time, controlled the coal industry in British Columbia and the western United States. Mr. Audain is a great-grandson of Robert Dunsmuir, founder of the former coal industry.

Modern Facilities To Have Cobalt Bomb

Victoria Cancer Society is planning a $100,000 clinic to replace crowded facilities at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The new clinic, on the hospital grounds, would include installation of a cobalt bomb, the ultimate in treatment of many types of cancer.

It would be second such installation in B.C. Vancouver has one now.

The cobalt bomb would be housed in a concrete chamber with walls two feet thick as a protection against its radioactive rays.

Drawings and specifications for the unit are being prepared by city architects Whittaker and Wagg. They will be presented to B.C. Cancer Foundation headquarters at B.C. next week with an application for a grant to provide building capital.

The Cancer Foundation was set up at request of the provincial government to correlate treatment and research in the province. It is allied with the Canadian Cancer Society, which is the fund raising body.

The proposed new building would be of single-story, reinforced concrete construction. Location is planned on the hospital grounds between the maternity wing and the old section of the hospital where the present cancer clinic is located. It would eventually become part of the proposed new $1,400,000 wing which may be placed before Greater Victoria voters in December.

Five Hurt in Rash Of City Accidents

Five persons, including two young children, were injured in a rash of traffic accidents overnight.

Police officials said it was one of the busiest nights in recent weeks. They attended six separate accidents in scattered parts of the city.

Four of the injured were released from hospital after treatment for glass cuts and abrasions.

Most seriously hurt was 20-year-old Gerald Burton, 314 Huntington, who was admitted to Jubilee Hospital with severe lacerations following a spectacular crash at 11.45 p.m. at Menzies and Toronto.

STEERING FAILED

Burton was thrown to the pavement when his car went into a skid after the steering mechanism failed. His car came to a stop in the front yard of Albert Marriott, 520 Toronto.

Burton's condition was described as good by hospital officials today.

The first child hurt was four-year-old Mela Singh Sangha, 376 Obed, who was shaken up and suffered a cut lip when her father's car collided with a second auto at Manchester and George streets.

Two hours later Donald Moberly, six, 2646 Prior, was struck by a car driven by 16-year-old Louise Leahy, 582 Whiteside, as he was crossing Hillside at Prior.

Two women were injured at 12.13 a.m. when the car in which they were passengers blew out a tire and swerved into a parked car at Gorge and Balfour.

Mrs. Jean Preston and Mrs. Betty Duff, both of 111 Gorge Road, were released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital for facial lacerations.

Driver of the car was Roel Vanderbyl, 3158 Alder. Two youths escaped injury when their cars collided at Store and Fisgard at 3.30 a.m. Both will be summonsed for careless driving.

A number of other minor accidents were also reported, including side-swiping of parked cars.

Driver Fined After 'Near-Miss' With Policeman

A motorist who almost hit a police constable trying to stop him after his car knocked over a parking meter was fined $25 in city police court today for impaired driving.

Maxwell John Morley, Gordon Head soldier, pleaded guilty. His driver's licence also was suspended.

He was arrested at 2.45 a.m. on Delaney street, near the city parking meter on View Street.

A police constable testified that he had to jump out of the path of Morley's weaving auto after trying to stop him by waving a flashlight in front of the car.

'Bad Boy' Quebec Writer Visits City

The "bad boy" of French-Canadian letters came to Victoria on his first visit today—and proclaimed life in the writing profession very good, indeed.

Roger Lemelin, whose books have been banned in his native Quebec because he sometimes pokes fun at the clergy, laughs uproariously when he hears Canadian writers described as an impoverished class.

The 36-year-old is reputed to be Canada's most successful writer, dollar-wise.

His income has been estimated at $75,000 a year.

Most of this comes from the TV version of his book, "The Plouffe Family," which is heavily sponsored and now runs on every CBC television station (Thursday nights from Vancouver).

Lemelin wrote the book, about a French-Canadian boy who goes into the army and kills Nazis by throwing baseball-style hand grenades. His mother is shocked. So is his girl friend.

BIG HIT

The book was an instant hit in Quebec, because it delineated the French-Canadian view on war and peace, and got off some wry digs at some highly-respected shibboleths.

Before that, Lemelin had written a number of books, including "The Boy From the Town Below," which won several international prizes and a Guggenheim scholarship.

The amazing thing about all this, Lemelin confesses, is that he quit school before he matriculated. He began to write when hospitalized after a sick leave.

TAUGHT HIMSELF

He taught himself English by probing around Quebec's public library, and filling French-English words in separate match boxes.

As he learned the various words, Lemelin would "promote" them from one box to another.

Purpose of his present trip, under CBC sponsorship, is to see Canada and discover some western material for "The Plouffe Family" serial.

The Quebec author, who is the father of four children, has been a champion of cordiality between French and English-speaking Canadians and believes that more travel between Quebec and the rest of Canada will bring about closer rapport.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—What is the rate of pay for Suez canal pilots?—"Mate."

A.—Junior pilots average around $12,000 a year, senior pilots can make up to $23,000 a year, depending on the number and types of ships handled.

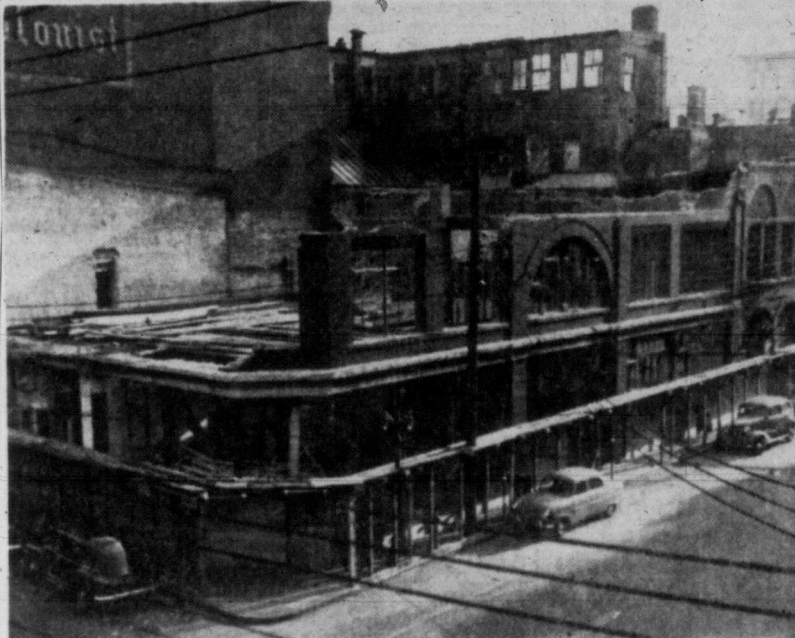

Q.—What are the laws regarding use of fireworks in Victoria?—P. W.

A.—According to city by-law: "No person shall light or set fire to any fireworks or light, or throw, any lighted firecracker, squib or explosive material or object within the jurisdictional limits of the city; PROVIDED always that it shall be lawful for the municipal council to grant permission to any person to exhibit any fireworks in any public park, upon such terms, conditions and regulations as they shall specify in such permit."

However, in past years, especially at the Halloween period, the by-law has not been enforced.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Where Is Evacuation Plan?

Unexplained delay in issuance of a Greater Victoria civil defence evacuation plan was questioned by Mayor Percy Scragg today.

Concerned with a report by Ald. W. F. Pinfold that Victoria is unprepared for surprise air attack, the mayor said:

"Where is our evacuation plan? It was approved by the board and was to have been distributed."

He said he felt a meeting of the Greater Victoria Civil Defence Board should be called as soon as district councillors and aldermen return from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Penikese, during the first week of October.

In February this year the control board overruled objections of Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele who proposed a "dig-in" policy, and ordered publication of a detailed evacuation plan.

ACTION ASKED

Ald. Pinfold, who returned this week from a CD course at Ottawa, urged the plan, as approved, be circulated immediately.

A booklet, complete with map showing escape routes for all sections, and including instructions for survival in atomic attack, was prepared by CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey. He said at the time of the meeting two CD experts would come here from Ottawa to assist in final preparation of the booklet.

"They may not be coming now," Ald. Pinfold told the mayor.

Ald. Pinfold detailed some of the instruction he received at the CD college. He said a section of the booklet, material had been displayed, and he and other municipal representatives had been given Geiger counters.

He said destructive rays were recorded after they passed through such items as a hay stack, a pile of mud, sand bags, a two-foot concrete wall. Evacuation would be the only defence for Victoria, he said.

"Dig a shelter under one of our parks, 200 feet deep. Line it with 10 feet of concrete—it would still be useless."

He felt any evacuation plan would be useless also unless there was full co-operation by the provincial CD authorities.

"Calgary carried out a practice evacuation. But the situation would be different here. If the population was moved to the mountains, there would not be 100 houses to give shelter."

He said the district should ask the provincial government to set up a permanent reception area there with tents and supplies stockpiled.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

Love Thy Neighbor Is Easter's Quote

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.—Gospel according to St. Luke, chapter 10, verse 27.

"There's nothing wrong with the world today but for the human element in it," said Rev. George R. Easter, First Baptist Church.

"The passionate cry of mankind is 'What's in it for me?' You can't tell a selfish man that it isn't nice to be selfish. It calls for an inner revolution of character and you will never achieve it apart from worship."

"The quotation says you must love your neighbor as yourself, but I'm dead sure you'll never get the brotherhood of man merely by saying 'Come on, let's do it together.'"

"I have poor beggars come in here whose life is being ruined by drink," he said. "Never, by reason, alone, can I show them that science, religion and society are against them. They must undergo some great religious experience to realize that there is a power outside themselves to help change their lives."

On October 1, Mr. Easter will have served First Baptist Church for 14 years. To celebrate, he will travel with Mrs. Easter to Hamilton, Ont., where his daughter, Jean, 23, will graduate with a bachelor of science degree from McMaster University.

His son, John, 21, left this week to enter second year arts at Brandon College, Brandon, Man.

"Your Serve!"...

David Laing, publicity chairman, finds an interested audience in club members Donnie Clements, left, and Rene Wells, as he posts a notice in the clubhouse to "bring a friend" to tonight's dance and Sunday's "Open House."

This weekend Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club members say farewell to tennis and enter an active season of badminton that will hear the cry "Your Serve!" echoed and re-echoed as the days progress . . . Tonight in the club lounge a Harvest Dance will be held to terminate a successful tennis season. Joan O'Neil's orchestra will play for the party from 9 until 12. . . Sunday night at 7.30, the 1956-57 badminton season will officially commence with an "Open House" in the club lounge when old members, new members and prospective members will be welcomed. Committee in charge of the season's program include: Reg Hoadley, David Laing, Jimmy Wells, Len Tolson, Eric Hibberson, Mrs. Pauline Blay and Mrs. Joan Rothe.

Coach Maureen Bray holds the club singles badminton championship, city singles and Lower Vancouver Island singles. She is taking an active part in plans for a round-robin mixer tournament next Wednesday night in which present members will become acquainted with new members.

Already there are 50 junior members in the club under leadership of coach Joan Rothe. Among them are, left to right, Harvey Hurd, Jane Lee, British Columbia under 16 champion; Diana Parsons, B.C. under 18 champion, and Mel Chapman. The Misses Lee and Parsons are also B.C. junior doubles champions. The junior division has its own committee which organizes tournaments and social affairs.

Muted, Subtle Tones for Fall Follow Trend of Bygone Days

like fold in the material or high placed pocket flaps.

The blouse back which was glimpsed last year is now a dominant feature. There is a definitely relaxed look at the waistline.

There is still a place for the full skirt. It will always be asked for by the woman who can look petite.

As I mentioned last week when discussing coats, the costume look is very good style. We see it in the suit story as a three-piece.

Many suit jackets show the high Empire line, either by an inset of self fabric, a yoke.

The most wearable item in our wardrobe from now until June is a wool suit, so choose carefully and enjoy its every wearing.

THE QUESTION BOX

Dear Mrs. Lewis: Unfortunately there does not seem to be any way to whiten ermine once it has yellowed. The yellowing is a natural process of age with this fur. You may be able to bring a freshness to your skins by rubbing them gently with cornmeal or cornstarch.

BRICK BABY

PLYMOUTH, England (CP)—Mrs. Mahala Lee, 25, champion baby-carriage pusher of this Devon city, won the title for the fourth successive year with a borrowed carriage full of bricks. Mrs. Lee is childless.

Harry Frechtel's three-piece ensemble of green and black tweed for fall, 1956. The 34-inch coat is back-belted flared at the bottom, gathered and bloused above. A black orlon sweater, banded at the neck with tweed, fits snugly with the slim skirt.

For you checker fans there's a new collapsible checker board table that will make the game even more fun. Reminiscent of old-fashioned checkerboard tables, this one has a modern touch in the three-way wrought iron legs upon which a round metal top rests. On the table top is the board. This is a low table so that you can sit on the footstool or on the floor if you like. Since the top is removable, it can be placed on another table if you wish. The table, complete, is $4.95.

Shotgun Shells 'Loaded' With Non-Explosive Spice

By PENNY SAVER

Is there a hunter in the house?

A gift of shotgun shells for him would be a good thought. A strange gift you say? Not at all, these "shells," bright red with the usual metal base, are really a set of salt and peppers. Plastic in a bright-red does the trick. For rumpled room or kitchen, barbecue or any mealtime, these will be conversational pieces that add real character to your table. They're fun to buy, fun to give, and are at a reasonable price—$1.80.

It was one of my favorite gift shops. At first I thought it was a combination purse and small briefcase for the busy career woman—but instead I found it to be a well-made and handy travel writing case, fitted and shaped for convenience. Of natural leather, polished to a sheen, it is complete with leather grip handle, small lock and stitched seams. For either a man or woman, this is a good buy at $9.25.

Winter is just about upon us, it seems, and I've noticed some friends with a love for heavy knits busy at work knitting scarves, sweaters and such that will keep them warm while skiing or just going to and from work.

In leisure moments, or while killing a bit of time, out comes the project, and another fraction of an inch is added. Those of them who carry their knitting with them find that dropped stitches cause a few frowns, so the smart ones have invested in little novelty stitch keepers that hold stitches on the needles. Hand-carved head and shoulders of jauntily dressed men go over the sharp ends of the needles. Two strips of elastic attached to either side of the little men hold them snugly. Clever, and sent all the way from Italy, they're just 90 cents a pair.

For you checker fans there's a new collapsible checker board table that will make the game even more fun. Reminiscent of old-fashioned checkerboard tables, this one has a modern

The groom-elect is a graduate of University of British Columbia with a B.Sc., and is now attending and will graduate in October from the same university with a M.Sc. The bride-elect has been a dancing teacher in Victoria for the past two years. (Photo of Miss Myren by Chevrons Studio.)

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Men, Too, Are Interested In Health and Longevity

Although this is essentially a column for women, many of the subjects discussed are just as interesting to men as to women. That is why I receive quite a bit of mail from men.

For instance, men are interested in health and longevity and even in keeping their hair on their heads and in remaining youthful. They also are interested in complexion in that they do not like to have a pimply face any more than a woman does.

One letter from a masculine reader says, "After following your exercises for a while I managed to reduce my waist and baywindow in an unexpectedly short time." A friend of my husband's and mine gave me his belt as a sort of trophy to show how many notches he had taken it up—five! Maybe your hubby can do the same.

In the light of new knowledge about prolonging the youthful portion of life, it seems quite sad that every man and every woman does not take advantage of it.

Here are a couple of exercises which men like.

1. The punching bag exercise. If you do not have a punching bag just pretend that you do, and go through the motions, jabbing out vigorously through the air.

2. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting overhead on the floor. Raise your trunk and your arms simultaneously. Try to touch your fingertips to your toes. If you cannot do that (and you will not be able to if you are out of condition) touch your fingers to your ankles or as far down on your legs as possible. Return the arms and legs and trunk to the floor. Rest. Continue.

If you would like to have my short exercise routine planned especially for men send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 20. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Here's a vegetable dish you can prepare ahead of time and have ready for the oven. Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in ¼ cup all purpose flour. Allow to cook several minutes, stirring constantly. Slowly stir in 2 cups milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Stir in ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, 2 cups grated American cheese and ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce. Cook slowly, stirring, until the cheese melts. Layer 3 cups of cooked rice, 2 cups cooked lima beans and the cheese sauce in a well-greased 2-quart oven dish. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Dot with butter and bake in a pre-heated 350° F. oven for 40 minutes.

Thanksgiving Favorites

Hot, spiced apple juice fits perfectly into any Thanksgiving menu and here is how you make it. To one 20-ounce can of apple juice add ½ teaspoon cider vinegar, 6 cloves, a stick of cinnamon and one teaspoon of sugar. Bring to the boil, then remove from the heat and let cool. Strain and store in the refrigerator. Reheat just before serving.

As a crisp complement to your turkey, roast cabbage, celery and carrots together with dressing. If you prefer a jellied salad combine these three vegetables in a ready-mix jelly powder with a little vinegar and salt added for zip. You may use a large mould or individual ones and the salad will be particularly attractive if served with cress.

Squares of unfrosted white or yellow cake become party fare with a topping of butter-scotch sauce and canned cling peach slices.

Joan Morris a Bride In Afternoon Ceremony

Pink and white carnations with tulle and gladioli were the delicate blooms which formed a background for the wedding ceremony performed in St. George's Presbyterian Church this afternoon when Joan Valerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Morris, 1924 Brighton Avenue, became the bride of Mr. John Gilbert Callan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Callan, 2101 Sutherland Road.

Rev. F. H. McAlister, officiating, read the couple's vows. Soloist during the ceremony was Miss Coleen Erb, who sang "The Wedding Prayer."

A bridal gown of gossamer nylon tulle accented with an inset of Chantilly lace in the bodice and skirt was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. A jacket of matching lace was worn, topped a bodice of lace. A Callot headress of lace held her mistle chapel length veil of nylon illusion net. Gardenias and white heather in a crescent bouquet completed her ensemble.

Mrs. N. Wylie, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Lorna Stuart and Miss Wendy Maund, attended the bride. They wore tulle fitted gowns of green taffeta fashioned with billowing skirts. Their hats were of matching green with white feathers and they carried elegant bouquets of harvest moon carnations.

The groom had Donald Callan as his best man, while Don Stuart and Tom Moore were ushers.

A reception was held in the church hall, where Ed Meads proposed the toast to the bride's future happiness. Pink carnations and pink tulle with the wedding cake decorated the bride's table.

For travelling the bride chose a cornflower blue knitted suit with a cashmere coat, on tone. Her accessories were winter white, and her corsage was a gardenia.

Following a honeymoon trip to Washington and Oregon, the newlyweds will make their home at Cranmore Court, 2100 Cadboro Bay Road.

Happy faces of the Constance Mary Girls' Choir win hearts of their audiences, even before they sing. The 26 little girls wear dark skirts, white blouses and red ribbons when they perform. Mrs. W. L. Pyle, conductor, is pictured at back.

SING-A CAPELLA

A Victoria Woman Gives Vocal Talents To Fill Youngsters' Hunger for Music

By KITTY DIXON — they enjoy singing, and I've found they get just as much enjoyment out of the classics as they do from "The Happy Wanderer" and "Bluebird on Your Window Sill."

"They sing in harmony, mostly. The children—particularly enjoy songs with descants and echo effects."

SINGS FOR THE AGED

Inspiration to begin her choir came last spring, when Mrs. Pyle, who had been guest soloist at several banquets given for old age pensioners by the Faith Temple Hall, thought the pensioners would enjoy hearing children sing. So her daughter, Christine, and seven little friends, rounded up 21 girls to sing at one of the banquets. Enthusiasm was so great that Mrs. Pyle felt she couldn't stop training the girls.

SHE LOVES IT!

Mrs. Pyle teaches the youngsters without the aid of a pitch pipe or tuning fork. She simply chooses a starting note according to the tessitura of the song.

"And it always seems to be the right one," she says.

Asked if she has perfect pitch, Mrs. Pyle replied:

"I really don't know. I've never been tested for pitch. You see, I'm not a trained vocal teacher, though I've been singing for as long as I can remember. I can read music and I do quite a bit of solo work. You might say I'm self taught."

"I try to give the girls songs kitchen table."

Princess Opens Royal Visit to Mau-Mau Land

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived here by air today to start her five-week East African tour.

The sun blazed down out of a clear sky as the smiling princess stepped down from the airliner which had brought her from London.

She was dressed in blue or ganza, with a small blue cornflower hat, white gloves, shoes and handbag. She also wore a diamond spray and pearls.

Margaret flew into Mombasa via Gibraltar, Kano, Nigeria, and Entebbe, Uganda.

During an hour's stopover at Kano Friday night the princess took a 60-minute moonlight spin through the quiet city.

The holiday spirit seized Mombasa after the arrival Friday of the royal yacht Britannia, in which the princess will later sail to Mauritius and Zanzibar.

Some Arabs, including children, have come hundreds of miles to see the Princess. Many of the African villagers have never before seen a city or a two-story building.

Margaret's plane was to have flown over Egypt but the Suez Canal crisis caused a change of plan.

It also caused the Britannia to go around the Cape of Good Hope instead of through the canal.

This is her third trip to Africa, and her second official tour by herself. She is due to return to London Oct. 26.

The governor told reporters Friday the Princess' visit to Kenya is a sign of the enormous improvement in stamping out Mau Mau anti-British terrorism that began four years ago.

More than 200 police officers swarmed into Kezar Stadium on a riot call which was sounded after segments of the crowd of 20,000 got out of hand.

Wrong-Way Freighter Breaks Up on Beach

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Huge seas, smashing against the beached freighter Seagate throughout the night, broke the ship in half today only hours before a salvage crew planned to attempt to refloat her. Henry Foss of the Foss Launch and Tug Co. reported.

Foss said the ship, which went aground on Washington's coast Sept. 6, will be "a total loss."

When the ship first grounded in dense fog the crew thought she was on Brothelie Ledge at the entrance to the Victoria, B.C., harbor. A second message from the ship placed it at Race Rocks, 12 miles west of Victoria.

It finally was located wrecked on Sonora Reef, on the Washington coast 70 miles south of Cape Flattery.

Three days after grounding a storm did what tugs had been unable to do—dislodge the ship. She drifted two and one-half miles before grounding on Tahola Beach.

The two halves of the vessel had not parted this morning, but the towing company official said that would probably happen in the afternoon.

A Foss company salvage crew headed by Jeff Hoagg of Seattle and Drew Foss of Tacoma is standing by to await developments and determine what attempts might be made to salvage the remains of the ship. The tug Craig Foss is also on the scene.

Workmen had been scheduled to be put aboard the freighter by helicopter this weekend to start their efforts to refloat the Liberian registered ship.

Door Seen Open For More Talks With Nasser

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian leaders were reported today to view the final communique of the Suez conference in London with "relief."

They are said to be glad the conference toned down its original plan for the Suez Canal Users' association and opened up the way for new negotiations.

Unofficial sources here point out that two aspects of the users' association strongly objected to by Egypt—use of the association's pilots through the canal and collection of tolls by the association—appear to have been left "flexible" in the wording of the final London communique.

Political circles here now believe the prospect of finding a peaceful solution to the Suez problem is brighter than at any time since Prime Minister Eden's speech in the British Parliament way.

As Menon has had several meetings with Nasser, his remarks are believed in political circles here to indicate that Egypt is prepared to meet halfway any proposal for a peaceful solution of the problem as long as Egyptian sovereignty is not affected in any way.

proposing the formation of a canal users' association.

These circles attach particular importance to the reported remark by W. K. Krishna Menon, Indian minister without portfolio, to correspondents in Cairo that he hopes the two sides will agree to a satisfactory solution in a spirit of give and take.

Blunted Suez Plan Approved by France

LONDON (AP)—The French cabinet decided today to participate in the blunted Suez Canal Users Association, but with the reservation that it must not weaken insistence on the principle of international administration of the waterway.

At the same time Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd issued formal invitations fixing Oct. 1 as the date for a third London Suez conference to settle the mechanical details of putting SCUA into action.

The conference will be on the ambassadorial level, and invitations went to the 17 other countries which attended the just-ad-journed meeting that founded the association. Counting France, at least 12 of the 18 attending powers have lined up to join the new international agency, which will seek a solution to Egypt's nationalization of the canal.

Adherence to the agency by France, which had insisted on strong action against Egypt's President Nasser, was placed in question Friday when the French claimed that aspect of the association's teeth had been pulled before it was born.

The French were particularly annoyed because a plan for SCUA to collect tolls paid by all members was dropped.

The cabinet, meeting in Paris today to hear a report from Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, declared, however, that it will "work to maintain French-British solidarity."

Britain too wants to keep as much revenue out of Nasser's hands as possible, but Lloyd officially went along with the tempered version.

Despite French agreement to join, a Paris communique after a two-hour cabinet meeting declared that France will continue to "conserve her liberty of action, and refuses to collaborate in any measure which she estimates will be contrary to her essential interests or the objectives" of international operation of the canal.

Meanwhile, Nasser flew today from Cairo to Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, for a three-power Arabian conference with President Shukri Kuwailid of Syria and King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

There is speculation in the Egyptian capital that Nasser's hands are as possible, but Lloyd officially went along with the tempered version.

RCAF Canso Hunts Missing Men, Plane

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—An RCAF Canso searched again today for two missing Williams Lake men and their light plane, missing in the rugged Buckley House-Fort St. James area of north-central B.C.

Pilot Bert Lloyd, 30, and prospector Bert Goodrich, 48, were due to return to Vanderhoof, Sept. 15. They started out from there on Sept. 10 in their light float plane to make an aerial survey of placer mining claims.

A trader said he saw the men on Sept. 15 near Buckley House, on Takla Lake, 150 miles northwest of Prince George.

An RCAF Canso searched all water routes from Buckley House to Fort St. James Friday at an altitude of between 2,000 and 3,000 feet without success.

STIFF SENTENCE

VANCOUVER—A six-time offender was handed a six-month jail sentence Friday for impaired driving, the longest term ever imposed for such an offence in B.C.

Douglas Williamson, 31-year-old Vancouver salesman, was also prohibited from driving for three years after being arrested early Friday while driving erratically at a south-central intersection here.

FISHERMEN SET DEADLINE

VANCOUVER—The B.C. salmon fleet has set Sept. 29 as the deadline for settlement of fall chum prices with packing companies.

If the Fisheries Association of B.C. does not agree to a price of 16 cents a pound top price the entire fleet will tie up the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union said Friday.

The companies have offered a 12-cent contract maximum.

GAS FRANCHISE APPROVED

NELSON—Nelson ratepayers voted Friday in favor of giving a 21-year franchise to the Inland Natural Gas Company and sale of the city-owned gas plant to the company.

Inland has offered to buy the city's present gas plant for $70,000 and operate it as at present until natural gas is piped into the city about November, 1957. They plan to spend about $1,000,000 in Nelson, including replacing all city mains, many of which are obsolete and broken.

YOUTH ELECTROCUTED

GRAND FORKS—Nineteen-year-old John Cuth, a construction worker, was electrocuted Thursday at Christina Lake when he left his truck to move an unconnected telephone wire off the road and received a shock from a power line that had fallen across the telephone wire during a brief storm.

GIANT PELICAN KILLED

LILLOOET—A giant pelican that had resided at a farm near Shalalth and Seton Portage was killed Friday in a tangled with a 2,300-volt power line.

Workman George Angus found the bird's body on the ground with a few feathers still clinging to the power line above it. There were no tags or other markings on the pelican, which had a seven-foot wingspan.

INFANT SUFLOCATES

SEEK CENTRE SITE

VANCOUVER—A three-man subcommittee was formed here Friday to find a location for a treatment centre for drug addicts.

Members are A. J. Harrison, town planning commission chairman; Charles Brakenridge and F. W. G. Sergeant.

Objections from 60 property owners caused the planning commission to turn down a request from the Narcotic Addiction Foundation of B.C. to convert a private home in suburban Point Grey into a treatment centre.

DEMANDS PUBLIC TRIAL

VANCOUVER—Vancouver lawyer Angelo Branca said Friday he has demanded that charges be laid against Constable Bert Maxey, who he says has been discharged from Delta police without a hearing.

Mr. Branca said he has written Ladder police commission that unless the dismissed constable is given a proper public trial he will ask the attorney-general to act. He said he will be present at the next meeting of the commission.

GUS LAUDS VICTORIANS

Ryder to Carry On But Schedule Easier

A new schedule which will permit Gus Ryder to "carry on, but a little easier," following a Florida vacation, was revealed by the famous Toronto swimming coach in a letter to the Times today.

Mr. Ryder went to hospital in Toronto for a rest and medical check-up after his strenuous summer.

"While in hospital I received many letters from the blind and crippled youngsters, some in bed and some facing operations," Ryder wrote. "Yet they would write to me. Folks are really wonderful."

Gus also disclosed some of the philosophy behind his training of Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon.

"Toronto gave Marilyn, Cliff and me a wonderful ticker-tape reception. It was grand. However we shall never forget the Victoria reception. That medal on the city gave me is the envy of all—and it was all done so spontaneously," he said.

NEVER FORGET

"The people of Victoria we shall never forget."

"We wanted folks to like us for ourselves, just as we liked Victorians for the same reason. No celebrity or fame stuff, no boasting."

"All we said was, we would do our very best, even if we missed we would try again. There isn't a body of water in the world I respect as much as the Strait."

"Naturally we would have liked to do it the first time, but in sport as in life you have to keep trying."

"I knew Cliff would do it, and I knew that Cliff would fire Marilyn to do it through his example. You can see what was riding on Cliff's swim—actually two swims."

"To get Marilyn back into training after her discouraging trial was tough, but putting her on Cliff's team during his swim was the answer. It worked."

"In her training on every two-hour swim, I would stop her at an hour and say: 'You're going too good. I want to save that,' thus building her up for the future."

"She was seething inside to make good, the same as Cliff did."

"Insisting on the Aug. 23 swim date, I knew if we waited we would not be able to hold that mental pitch. She did it, with plenty of help from Capt. Cavin, Jack Todd and everyone else in the party."

"Cliff's Atlantic City swim, a 26-mile race with Tom Parks, took it out of him for the summer. His swim of the strait, although wonderful in every way, wasn't the same Cliff Lumsdon."

"All we wanted him to do was make it. No one had made it that way so we had to be sure. However, it all turned out great, one going one way and the other, the other way, and both did it with great humility and modesty, making a host of friends."

"Stomach cramps finished Cliff in the $26,000 Brading swim (Lake Ontario)."

"A doctor's wife here said the feeling was much like labor

New Trial Asked For Killer

Evidence showed that 34-year-old Joseph Gordon could not have killed constable Gordon Sinclair in Vancouver Dec. 7 because he was not at the scene of the murder, lawyer Larry Hill argued before the B.C. Court of Appeal Friday.

Mr. Hill, counsel for Gordon, asked the court for a new trial for the condemned man who, with James Carey, 26, is scheduled to die Oct. 16 for the gun-slaying of the policeman.

Mr. Hill argued that the evidence showed Gordon was in downtown Vancouver at the time of the shooting.

George Drew will not be remembered by this capital as a particularly successful party leader. In fact, his tenure of office has been a rather prolonged period of disappointment to the Conservative rank-and-file.

"The important part of this letter is to tell you how much Mrs. Ryder and I appreciated everything at Victoria, and how wonderful folks were."

"Different places I went in Victoria for various things people refused payment, saying how much they appreciated the work we were doing."

"Dozens and dozens would stop me on the street and shake hands over it. Letters and phone calls poured in. One editor telephoned me long-distance to apologize for rough criticism after the first swim."

PLAYING ROOKEY

"Our pool here is in wonderful shape, financially and otherwise, due mainly to the help of the kids who work voluntarily, and our voluntary swim monies."

"Right now I am playing rookey. Mrs. Ryder and I are planning a long Florida vacation."

"Please give our best to Denny Boyd, Les Fox and all the grand people at The Times who helped us to make this a successful swim. I have written our thanks to the City Council. It was a privilege for us to be on the Victoria team."

RECORD SHOP

Hi Fi Goes Highland Wi' a Hundred Pipers

By HUMPHRY DAVY

I find it difficult to understand why pipe bands are on the increase in Canada when there are so many fine brass instruments. This is no reflection on Scotsmen. I'm speaking musically.

I realize that piping is an art, but its survival must be largely attributed to tradition; certainly not to melodious sound. In my opinion, no pipe band, no matter how good it is, can match a brass ensemble for entertainment or other-wise.

But regardless of my feelings for pipes (I like to hear them at great distances), I realize there are many people, including my wife, who find the music—or sound—exhilarating. And I have just the record for them. It's a new 10-inch Columbia featuring the "pipes and drums" of the 48th Highlanders of Canada.

As I am biased, I turned the disc over to a friend for review. He assures me it is one of the finest recordings of a Canadian pipe band he has heard. The program includes famous marches, reels and speys. His only regret is there isn't a similar record of the Seaforth Highlanders. Perhaps that will come later.

So if you sincerely like the pipes, get this record and turn on the knob and you will have the pipers marching through your room. Turn it on louder and they will march down the street—as long as it isn't my street. I'll take a brass band.

FEELING UNPARALLELED

Wave of Sympathy Swelling for Drew

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
BUP Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA (BUP)—In a wave of sympathetic reaction unparalleled in the memory of Parliament Hill veterans, all that could be said by way of good about retired Progressive Conservative chief George Drew was being said in the capital this weekend.

The volume of favorable testimony which individuals in all walks of life were voicing was impressive. Its effect was heightened by the atmosphere of personal tragedy with which most of the discussion invested Drew's sudden and involuntary elimination from the federal political stage.

George Drew will not be remembered by this capital as a particularly successful party leader. In fact, his tenure of office has been a rather prolonged period of disappointment to the Conservative rank-and-file.

SUCCESSFUL PREMIER

In peacetime his record had not been confined merely to even mainly to the field of criticism. Parliament Hill observers rank as possibly the most important achievement of his career the work which he carried out as premier of Ontario in spurring the province back on the road of sound government after the excesses of the latter period of the Hepburn regime. His writings as an author upon military subjects, especially air policy, are also recognized as having had a constructive effect in their day upon strategic conceptions in the realm of national defence.

In addition, political circles here pay unanimous tribute to the courtesy, generosity, and the greatness of character of the retired PC leader. George Drew was incapable of pettiness in his personal relations, and refused to carry political bitterness outside of the House of Commons.

In brief, this capital has had more successful party leaders, but few more versatile, more genuinely public-minded, or whom it has respected more for his innate personal qualities. The wave of regret marking his retirement today assumed the proportion of a genuine capital-wide mourning.

Conservative member of parliament for Prince Albert, John Diefenbaker, will succeed George Drew as leader of the national party, it is predicted by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, for Esquimalt-Saanich.

General Pearkes will attend a meeting of the party caucus in Ottawa Oct. 1 and a meeting of the national Progressive-Conservative executive the following day.

The executive, in addition to selecting a date and place of a party convention to choose a new leader, will review Conservative policy.

"I believe Mr. Diefenbaker will be selected as the new leader," said General Pearkes. "While there may be one or two other names considered, I feel the final choice will be unanimous in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker."

FROM FLOOR

Nominations will come from the convention floor, he said. There will be no recommendation from caucus or the national executive.

General Pearkes expressed his sorrow at Mr. Drew's ill health.

Blast Aboard Warship Injures U.K. Seamen

LONDON (Reuters)—The Admiralty announced that an explosion occurred Thursday in the fleet escort ship Decoy which was returning to Malta after exercises at sea, and that some seamen were treated for shock. The Admiralty said there was no suggestion of malicious damage to the 2,610-ton vessel.

The new cases brought to 337 the number reported so far this year. This compared with 725 cases in the corresponding period of 1955 and the five-year 1951-55 average of 2,345.

So far this year the disease has killed 17 persons, compared with 20 last year.

Bulk of the cases in the week ended Sept. 15 were in Quebec and Ontario. There were three cases in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Cases of poliomyelitis reported to the health department for the week ended Sept. 15 showed an increase of six over the previous week, the department reported today. The department said there were 35 cases in the week, including 16 paralytic, compared with 28 last week, of which 18 were paralytic.

LPP Tells Peiping Congress Canada Will Recognize Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—A Canadian delegate told the Chinese Communist party congress in Peiping today that "before long" the Canadian government will "bow to rising public opinion" and recognize Red China.

Peiping radio said the speaker was Leslie Morris of Toronto, national organizer of the Labor Progressive Communist party and head of the three-man Canadian delegation to the congress in Peiping. Other Canadians were identified as A. A. Macleod of Toronto and Tom McEwen of Vancouver, both officials of the party.

Macleod is a member of the Labor Progressive party's national executive and McEwen is editor of the Pacific Tribune, Vancouver party organ on the west coast.

Longest Span Across Peace For Pipeline

Longest suspension span in B.C. is being constructed across the turbulent Peace River at Taylor Flats, just south of Fort St. John.

The span, 1,675 feet from tower to tower, will carry the Westcoast Transmission natural gas pipeline. Plans call for completion of the crossing this year.

The span is the first large aerial crossing for any major natural gas pipeline in Canada, and it will rank among the longest suspension bridges. It will be 125 feet longer than the Lions Gate Bridge across the First Narrows in Vancouver's harbor entrance.

It will carry two natural gas lines, one 26 inches in diameter which will transport gas northward from gas fields in Alberta to the $20,000,000 gas scrubbing plant now being constructed by Westcoast and Pacific Petroleum Ltd. at Taylor Flats. Gas from the Alberta fields and from B.C. fields will be united at the plant, and the 30-inch line will then transport the clean gas southward across the bridge again and on down through British Columbia.

Work is also under way at three other aerial crossing sites. They are: across the Fraser River at Shelly near Prince George, 1,290 feet; across the Quesset River, 480 feet; and across the Fraser at Flood, 1,470 feet.

244 New Lows On Wall St. During Week

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—The stock market traced a pattern in the past week identical to a week ago—four sessions of decline followed by a Friday rally. Again that Friday rally was led by the rails which rose 1.37 per cent while the industrials, gaining more in points, were up only 0.65 per cent.

The other big difference was that the losses earlier in the week were much larger than the week before. Despite the offset of a Friday recovery, the averages closed:

Industrial 400.33, off 9.90 points, widest weekly decline since May 25 when the market lost 23.9 points in a week; railroads 159.43 off 0.76 in contrast with a gain of 0.57 a week ago; utilities 67.39 off 0.64; and 65 stocks, 173.23, off 2.54.

Trading increased on the week also. Sales totaled 10,449,210 shares, a daily average of 2,089,842 shares. A week ago, the volume amounted to 9,835,199 shares, or a daily average of 1,967,039 shares.

Reasons for the decline were unchanged—Suez Canal, politics, tight money. Good news—steel at capacity, a jump in car loadings, stock splits, higher dividends, good earnings, reports, and prospects for a record fourth quarter and a record first quarter of 1957—was largely ignored.

Of 1,391 issues traded, 376 advanced, 822 declined, and 193 held unchanged. There were 244 new lows and only 26 new highs.

Chrysler was a strong feature; it rose 4 points over last week's close.

Other gainers included American Home Products, up 5; Babcock & Wilcox, up 2; Bucyrus-Erie, up 3; Caterpillar Tractor, up 3; Delaware, Lacawanna & Western, up 2; Texas & Pacific, up 5/4; and Visking Corp., up 4 1/2, the last helped by news of a merger with Union Carbide which lost 4 1/2 points.

Declines of 4 points or more appeared in Aluminum, Alcoa, Continental Oil, Great Northern Paper, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, and Trane Co. Coppers, steels, oils, aircrafts (Douglas off 5 1/2), and chemicals (Allied and Du Pont each off more than 4) generally were lower.

Canadian Markets To Change Hours To Match Wall St.

TORONTO (CP)—Sessions of the Montreal, Canadian and Toronto stock exchanges will open at 9 a.m. and close at 2:30 p.m. EST (6 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. PST) beginning Oct. 1 and running through to Oct. 26.

The move will allow the Montreal, Toronto and New York markets' trading hours to correspond. Montreal and Toronto move the clock back to standard time on Sept. 30 but New York City will continue on daylight until Oct. 29.

Election Figures Missing, Sealed In Ballot Boxes

SMITHERS, B.C. (CP)—First things first, even on election day. Final returns in Wednesday's British Columbia election are still not available from the Skeena riding in the northern part of the province.

Two deputy returning officers mistakenly sealed poll figures in the ballot boxes and sent only their expense accounts in the envelopes specially provided for results.

Iron Ore Smelter on V.I. Impractical Says Expert

Growth of the B.C. steel industry depends upon establishment of iron ore smelting, University of B.C. metallurgist Prof. William Armstrong said here Friday.

The two most logical areas for such an enterprise, picked from a total of eight in the province, would be the lower mainland, or Kimberley, he said, with the lower mainland probably the best.

An initial outlay of between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 likely would be required, a figure already taken into consideration by Vancouver interests connected with Vancouver Rolling Mills.

Prof. Armstrong spoke before the inaugural dinner meeting of American Society for Metals, Vancouver Island chapter, in Pacific Club. Formed last May, the organization has among its members, geologists, structural engineers and those connected with the manufacture of all types of metal products or users of products.

SHORT-LIVED

Contrary to a popular theory, Vancouver Island and Texada Island ores, although of a high quality magnetite, have not long to run due to continued export. Coal reserves, plentiful though they are, have a sulphur content unsuitable to the best refining process, the speaker said.

Another count against the Island as a smelter site, in spite of potential hydro power, is the high demand for electricity in other fields—a much higher demand than can be met readily.

In favor of the lower mainland as a smelter site is deep-water shipping access, electrical power availability and cheap barge transportation for raw materials.

Furthermore, Vancouver is the steel rolling mill centre, which presently operates solely on scrap steel, and would continue to use all available scrap, Prof. Armstrong said.

DOMESTIC USE

Steel produced now or in the future would be for domestic markets in Western Canada since overseas markets are already well supplied at competitive prices. In fact, said Prof. Armstrong, B.C. currently uses large quantities of Japanese steel which is cheaper than the American product.

Iron ore reserves in B.C. are sufficient to keep a domestic-gear smelter supplied for about 15 years on an economic basis, after which ore could be obtained from reserves along the northern U.S. coast.

The speaker said it would be difficult to prove a B.C. ore reserve of more than 12,000,000 tons, writing off Texada and the Campbell River areas.

Largest potential ore supply is Kimberley, where present mining and smelting operation produces the ore as a by-product of sulphur manufacture. This area is also close to coal reserves in the Crow's Nest Pass and to the Alberta market.

AMPLE SURVEY

But the difficulty here is that Alberta already produces an ample supply of sulphur from its southern petroleum industry, which might eliminate further manufacture of sulphur at Kimberley, thus losing the source of iron ore.

The professor said other potential ore and power areas are generally, Bute Inlet, Kemano, Bridge River, Neas River and the Yukon-Alaska-B.C. border area.

It is economical to smelt 200 tons a day into pig iron through electric furnace operation, and to keep a process economical it would be necessary to convert the molten pig iron into steel through Bessemer converter process at the same site, said the speaker.

The B.C. market for steel products is between 200,000 and 225,000 tons per year; the Alberta market, less stable, between 130,000 and 280,000 tons; Saskatchewan about 80,000 tons and Manitoba about 160,000 tons.

There are rolling mills now operating in Winnipeg and Edmonton (the largest of the three), which use the balance of scrap available in western Canada, the speaker said.

The Vancouver mill, which began operation in 1948, has never had a slack day and is unable to supply the full demand.

It has the largest electrical induction heating unit in the world which heats billet ingots to 2,200 degrees F. in eight minutes, and can produce 40,000 tons of ingot steel annually.

U.S. Steps Up Campaign Against Phone-Selling of Speculative Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission said Friday the "fraudulent selling" of highly speculative stocks by telephone from Canada has increased notably in the last six or seven months.

J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the commission, said he and his staff are making every effort to break this up and to work with Canadian authorities in stopping such operations across the border.

BCE's NEW SKYSCRAPER ALREADY TOO SMALL

VANCOUVER (CP)—The new 22-storey office building of B.C. Electric here won't be occupied until February but it's already too small.

Company officials say that instead of providing 20 per cent more space more than now is needed, the building will be 20 per cent too small because of B.C. Electric's recent growth.

To prepare for future needs, the company has bought an entire city block, and is already starting to fill it.

A site for a six-storey garage that can be taken down, shipped and erected elsewhere is being cleared and excavated. Building tenders will be called next week.

Preliminary plans have also been drawn for another office building—perhaps 15 storeys—to be built north of the present main structure.

JITTERY WEEK ON TORONTO

Junior Base Metals, Coppers Hardest Hit

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A sharp, two-day decline, due largely to rumors that margin requirements might be increased, shook the Canadian stock markets this week and sent them into their fifth straight decline.

A strong buying spell in the final session, however, recovered more than half the lost ground, the advance being only the fourth in the last 14 sessions.

Junior base metal and copper prices tumbled freely Wednesday and most of Thursday as unfavourable reports circulated that officials of the Canadian stock exchanges were to meet with Bank of Canada officials Friday and an increase in the margin system would probably be the result.

The rumors, however, were dispelled at the close of trading Friday when the heads of the Toronto and Montreal exchanges said no immediate restrictions are planned on the use of credit—margin buying—in connection with the purchasing of stocks.

NATURAL REACTION

Brokers said the strong showing Friday was a natural reaction following the sharp decline.

The international situation lent little to the market for any cause to buy or sell in a great demand. The general decline, which has taken over the market for the last month, sent many issues listed at Toronto to their 1956 lows. While only eight stocks were managing to touch the year's top prices, an overwhelming total of 370 struck new lows.

The industrial and western oil indices suffered losses of about four points while base metals recorded an index loss of 3 1/2 points. Golds were down 1 1/2 points.

Price changes in all sections except junior mining stocks were narrower than in previous weeks. Aluminum lost $5 among industrials while International Paper, Hayes Steel and Crown Zellerbach were down between $3 and $4. Trans Mountain gained a bit more than $3 while Chrysler, on a light turnover, added $4.50.

Temagami Copper suffered the heaviest decline among the junior mines. It plunged $1.10 to $5. The week's index changes at Montreal: Banks off 0.59 at 33.80; utilities off 0.2 at 140.2; industrials off 5.0 at 300.5; combined off 3.4 at 247.0; papers off 54.97 at 1458.71 and golds off 2.17 at 76.29.

Week's volumes at Montreal: 405,508 industrials and 3,959,678 mines against 316,184 industrials and 4,747,723 mines the previous week.

TRIPLE FEATURE OF THE TRACK

Friday scored second victory. Right, owner-trainer Len Lucas leads in winners at the meeting with six. Meeting continues next week with first post daily at 2.45. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Len and Jimmy Prove Tough Pair to Beat

Lucas Saddles Sixth Winner At Sandown

By BILL WALKER
The present Sandown race meeting could well be called the Len Lucas stakes. Certainly jockey Jimmy Broomfield and the three-year-old bay colt Noahlaude should agree, as they draw big assists for this conception.

Lucas Friday saddled his sixth winner in Noahlaude who scored his second straight triumph of the meeting. Broomfield, top hardboot, was up on the speedy colt which set a new track mark for the mile, a crackling 1.40, to register his 10th trip to the winners' enclosure.

It was a tight squeeze for Noahlaude though, with Flash Bet a capable second as Ten Buttons, the leader entering the stretch, bled and was eased up.

MORE PICTURES

Favorites and form again predominated while the camera was needed for three of the seven races, which caused one official to remark:

"At this rate we'll have more pictures here in two weeks than we had in the Vancouver meeting at Exhibition Park."

Certainly the competition has been good — better than last year — and the overall class an improvement.

Most of all was an easy winner in the first: Some Doings barely held off a closing drive by Ardell to take the second, end Silvery Sin.

Some Doings and Ardell combined for a quinella of $30.60 in the second.

The public choice Fast Day breezed home easily in the fourth, and the favored Last Ostris came with a rush to nip High Justice and The Eel in the mile and 70-yard fifth.

Sun Boy, a chestnut gelding of eight years, proved his class in the seventh with a half-length victory over Sea Lad and the quinella return.

WAGERING UP

Wagering was up Friday for a 16 per cent increase over the same day last year, the meeting to date showing a rise of 4 per cent over last year. Association officials said earlier that a 20 per cent increase would be needed in order for the meeting to be a financial success.

Last year, it will be recalled, the association lost heavily on the first return of the sport here in eight years.

Post time next week has been moved up to a 2.45 start. Friday's form chart will be found on page 27.

KERR, TICEHURST IN B.C. GOLF FINAL

Victoria's Laurie Kerr will have at least familiar surroundings going for him Sunday at Colwood Golf Club when he meets Vancouver's Bert Ticehurst in their long-delayed B.C. match play final. Kerr defeated Vince Clarkson to win the Times Vancouver Island championship, while Ticehurst was the Province Cup winner. PLAYERS ARRIVE

Cougars Hit Camp Sunday

Budding coach Colin Kilburn of the WHL Victoria Cougars will get his first real taste of coaching woes Sunday morning at 9.30 when the Cougars open training in Nanaimo.

Players, led by Bill Dobbyn, Bruce Carmichael and Bill Davison, holdovers with the club, started arriving in town Friday, and approximately 20 players should be on hand when training gets underway Sunday.

Arriving late, however, will be goalie Marcel Pelletier, who left Milwaukee Friday with his family, and will be in Nanaimo Tuesday or Wednesday.

Cougars will still have two netminders in camp. Victoria's Don Hamilton and Port Alberni's Earl Anshelm, who has been playing his hockey in England, will be between the pipes Sunday.

Another local player being given a fling is Victoria commercial league star Ed Varga, who will work out with the Cougars for the first few days while on his holidays.

Cougars will play an exhibition game with Allan Cup winners, Vernon Canadians, Thursday, Oct. 4, in Nanaimo, and another one in Memorial Arena, Friday, Oct. 5, and will open their regular WHL schedule in Victoria on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 8, against Vancouver Canucks.

LONDON (CP) — Four horses owned by Calgary publisher Max Bell will be shipped to New York during the weekend for racing in the United States and Canada.

Heading the list is Hindu Wand, a four-year-old Hindustan colt which will represent Canada in the big international invitation race at Laurel, Md., Nov. 10. Bell purchased Hindu Wand from British owner W. H. Harrison a week ago.

Also in the shipment will be Calgary Court, a three-year-old by Supreme Court out of Anna Lucasta. Calgary Court was entered in the Derby and St. Leger but was withdrawn from both races.

The other two thoroughbreds on the flight are yearlings Bell purchased at the recent Doncaster sales, a bay colt by Solonoway out of Maid of Middleham which cost 2,300 guineas, and a chestnut colt by Alycidon out of Summer Shower which brought 1,700 guineas.

CHARLIE'S DEBUT OKAY

Tars Sharper Than Vamps

Navy 17, Vampires 12

By BILL RAYNER

Navy is in second place in the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football Union standings today, but the route there wasn't exactly easy.

Friday night at Athletic Park, the sailors dumped Vampires 17-12 in a game that had a little of everything happen, including a few "boners" by mixed-up players on both teams.

Navy coach Frank Hindle put it rather nicely after the game when talking about Navy's clash with undefeated Oak Bay Drakes next Friday: "We make mistakes against the Drakes like we did out there tonight and they will really be rough on us," he said. "We won't be able to relax a minute against them."

Friday night, Navy relaxed at some of the oddest moments, but were much less in a stupor than several Vampires players. Five times the Vampires were a man short with play under way on the field. Navy was only guilty of this error in basic mathematics once.

After a brief early thrust into Navy territory from the opening kickoff, when a questionable third-down pass by quarterback Wayne Henderson missed from the 18-yard line, Vampires opened the scoring when they marched from the Navy 41 on five plays for an unconverted major by Pete Ash.

Vamps managed to hold on to the lead during the second quarter while the sailors marched down successively to the three, to lose the ball on a fumble; to the 14, to lose the ball on downs, and to the 16, to have a pass intercepted.

And then Navy's first TD could only be described as a "weirdie." A blocked Vampire kick on their 29 was finally kicked around down to the one, where the tars took over. Six plays later, including three penalties, Thomas passed to his extremely useful right end, Ron Young, on third down from the 13 for the score.

THEN CAME THAT GOAL. A few minutes later came that field goal. Stopped on another drive, Bud Brown, quarterbacking briefly, calmly called for a third-down field goal attempt from the 39. Doug Brown just as calmly plunked the ball squarely over the crossbar and it was 10-6.

Navy scored its final converted touch down after Thomas, skillfully mixing a baffling potpourri of running patterns, moved the tars briskly from their own 30 in 10 plays, finally sent hard-charging Bob Gooderham over from nine yards out.

Vampires weren't exactly dead, however. From the kickoff after touchdown, Bishop ran his mincing 82 yards down the far sideline for one of the most electrifying plays in recent seasons.

He was helped tremendously by a key block by Henderson at his own 40 that opened up a vital hole.

The game had spasms of weird plays and lively action

What pleased Hindle most, however, not to mention the rest of the Navy squad and the pro-navy rooters, was the performance of rookie quarterback Charlie Thomas.

Thomas played most of the offensive game at quarter, and displayed a fine budding knowledge of the option play and keeper play and established himself immediately as a dangerous, almost Jackie Parker-like runner.

He engineered Navy's first touchdown, by which they went ahead to stay 7-6, in the third quarter, and whipped the sailors to their clinching major in the final period.

In between, as the crowd of over 1,000 watched fascinated, Navy quarter Bud Brown, who took over briefly in the third, successfully called for a 39-yard field goal.

For Vampires, described by coach Ray Mitchell as "trying hard during the game, but with just not enough strength," the standout was Charlie Bishop, who ate up most of the losers' 220 yards along the ground, and went for an 82-yard touchdown after a kickoff in the fourth quarter to keep the scoring close.

The game had spasms of weird plays and lively action

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — The wind was a major factor in scoring today as Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., led a reduced field of 70 golfers into the third round of the $15,000 Oklahoma City golf tournament.

Maxwell, 27-year-old former North Texas State College star who has won over $15,000 on the professional touring circuit this season, toured the 25-mile-an-hour wind-swept Twin Hills Country Club course Friday with a four-under-par 68. That score coupled with a 70 in the first round gave him a 36-hole total of 138.

The first day leader, Bob Toski of Holyoke, Mass., fell behind with a 38-35 for a two-day total of 143.

Al Balding of Toronto, qualified with a 71-73-143. Hot on Maxwell's trail today was course professional Jimmie Gaunt, back one stroke at 139.

Gardner Dickinson, Panama City, Fla., who learned most of his golf from Ben Hogan, and Bill Casper, Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., 1952 Labatt Open winner, were tied for third place with 140.

Back at 141 were Bill Nary, Wayne, Mich.; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Bud Ecton of Oklahoma City.

By BILL RAYNER

Frank Gibbins had a 314 single. In Yarrows' mixed five, Greta Young was the best over the route with 737 (324), and Mel McDonald took single honors with 369.

New proprietors Allan Nelthorpe and Neal Craig of Capital City have a real youth movement going. This Sunday, 20 teams of youngsters aged nine to 16 start a junior kingpin league, while an Oak Bay High School league is in the offing. Allan reports tremendous enthusiasm among the small fry.

Finally, at a meeting of the Victoria chapter of the Women's International Bowling Congress, new executive elected included Mrs. Erma Stables, president; Mrs. Olive Webber, vice-president; Mrs. Dot Bennett, secretary; and Mrs. Hope Graham, sgt.-at-arms.

Canadian Girl Gains U.S. Amateur Finals

INDIANAPOLIS (CP) — Canada's Marlene Stewart turns her battering-ram game against the willowy conqueror of the defending champion today in the final of the United States Women's Amateur golf tournament.

Marlene, a poker-faced bundle of energy under iron control, teed off this morning against Joanne Gunderson, a tall, tawny-headed 17-year-old who is the baby of a tournament dominated by youth from start to finish.

Victory for Marlene would give Canada its first native-born U.S. women's champion. Victory for her opponent from Kirkland, Wash., would give the tournament its youngest champion in 60 years.

A gay nineties golfer named Beatrice Hoyt holds the youth record. She was three months younger than Joanne is now when she won the women's title in 1896. Scottish-born Dorothy Campbell won the title for Canada in 1910 but she had played it the year before while playing under British colors and later she moved to the U.S. and won a third time.

Marlene, just 22 herself, whetted her appetite for the final with a teenage victim while Joanne knocked the last over-30 player out of the tournament.

Wind No Problem to Marlene

Marlene defeated 19-year-old Anne Quast of Everett, Wash., 4 and 3 with a game which was unbelievably steady about the greens despite the strong south wind which rattled her opponent.

Joanne, whose booming drives and whiplash swing caught the fancy of the gallery, did not sail so smoothly. But she proved she can survive pressure by calmly knocking in a five-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to defeat veteran Iowan, Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone, 1 up after seeing a three-hole lead evaporate on the back nine.

Miss Quast won the first hole from Marlene, pride of Fonthill, Ont., but lost the second and again. Marlene took the lead by holing a 55-foot chip shot from the edge of the fourth green and was still up after Anne won the 11th with a 35-foot putt.

Cancer Society Plans New $100,000 Clinic

SLANDER SUIT TRIAL OPENS IN VICTORIA NEXT TUESDAY

A panel jury of 17 men has been selected by Sheriff Eric Wilkinson for a civil suit for slander instituted by James Audain against Robin Dunsmuir of Victoria, to be heard next Tuesday.

Mr. Audain, a cousin of the defendant, claims unstated damages for personal slander and damage for slander to his book, "From Coalmine to Castle," a publication issued last year.

Mr. Audain's book deals largely with the history of the Dunsmuir family who, at the time, controlled the coal industry in British Columbia and the western United States. Mr. Audain is a great-grandson of Robert Dunsmuir, founder of the former coal industry.

Modern Facilities To Have Cobalt Bomb

Victoria Cancer Society is planning a $100,000 clinic to replace crowded facilities at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The new clinic, on the hospital grounds, would include installation of a cobalt bomb, the ultimate in treatment of many types of cancer.

It would be the second such installation in B.C.

Vancouver has one now.

The cobalt bomb would be housed in a concrete chamber with walls two feet thick as a protection against its radio-active rays.

Drawings and specifications for the unit are being prepared by city architects Whitaker and Wagg. They will be presented to B.C. Cancer Foundation headquarters at Vancouver, B.C., next week with an application for a grant to provide building capital.

The Cancer Foundation was set up at request of the provincial government to correlate treatment and research in the province. It is allied with the Canadian Cancer Society, which is the fund raising body.

The proposed new building would be of single-storey, reinforced concrete construction. Location is planned on the hospital grounds between the maternity wing and the old section of the hospital where the present cancer clinic is located. It would eventually become part of the proposed new $1,400,000 wing which may be placed before Greater Victoria voters in December.

ROGER LEMELIN

$75,000 A YEAR

'Bad Boy' Quebec Writer Visits City

The "bad boy" of French-Canadian letters came to Victoria on his first visit today—and proclaimed life in the writing profession very good, indeed.

Roger Lemelin, whose books have been banned in his native Quebec because he sometimes pokes fun at the clergy, laughs uproariously when he hears Canadian writers described as an impoverished class.

The 36-year-old is reputed to be Canada's most successful writer, dollar-wise.

His income has been estimated at $75,000 a year.

Most of this comes from the TV version of his book, "The Plouffe Family," which is heavily sponsored and now runs on every CBC television station (Thursday nights from Vancouver).

Lemelin wrote the book, about a French-Canadian boy who goes into the army and kills Nazis by throwing baseball-styled hand grenades. His mother is shocked. So is his girl friend.

Before that, Lemelin had written a number of books, including "The Boy From the Town Below," which won several international prizes and a Guggenheim scholarship.

The amazing thing about all this, Lemelin confesses, is that he quit school before he matriculated. He began to write when hospitalized after a ski accident.

He taught himself English by probing around Quebec's public library, and filing French-English words in separate match boxes.

As he learned the various words, Lemelin would "promote" them from one box to another. Purpose of his present trip, under CBC sponsorship, is to see Canada and discover some western material for "The Plouffe Family" serial.

The Quebec author, who is the father of four children, has been a champion of cordiality between French and English-speaking Canadians and believes that more travel between Quebec and the rest of Canada will bring about closer rapport.

Q.—What are the laws regarding use of fireworks in Victoria?—P. W.

A.—According to city by-law: "No person shall light or set fire to any fireworks or light, or throw, any lighted firecracker, squib or explosive material or object within the jurisdictional limits of the city; PROVIDED always that it shall be lawful for the municipal council to grant permission to any person to exhibit any fireworks in any public park, upon such terms, conditions and regulations as they shall specify in such permit."

However, in past years, especially at the Halloween period, the by-law has not been enforced.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

I have always been an admirer of the "no need to" school of advertising.

You know what I mean. "No need to" advertising tells you you don't need to do the needless. "No need to suffer with old fashioned remedies when you can suffer with our new-fashioned remedy."

Well, the latest example of this type advertising is contained in a full page message for the Bayer Aspirin people. Under a photograph of a football player in full cry is a caption which reads:

"You don't have to play 60 minutes of football to get aching muscles or a headache. A little extra exertion on the job or around the house will do it."

You can imagine with what great relief I learned this news.

There have been times when I just haven't felt up to playing 60 minutes of football, even to achieve aching muscles.

Now that I know 60 minutes of football isn't necessary, I can have headaches whenever I choose, without even leaving the house.

No doubt the aspirin people would be willing to go a little farther and tell us how we can achieve many other popular ailments the easy way.

I can visualize a whole campaign built around the slogan: "No need to hit your head against the wall to get an aching head. Just a little extra concentration on the taxes you're paying will do it."

And another set of ads could feature: "You don't have to sleep in a sick-bunk to catch a cold. Just relaxing with your feet out the window will do it."

And, of course: "No need to throw yourself off the top of a 36-story building to break your leg. A little two-story building will often do."

Where Is Evacuation Plan?

Unexplained delay in issuance of a Greater Victoria civil defence evacuation plan was questioned by Mayor Percy Scudrah today.

Concerned with a report by Ald. W. F. Pinfold that Victoria is unprepared for surprise air attack, the mayor said:

"Where is our evacuation plan? It was approved by the board and was to have been distributed."

He said he felt a meeting of the Greater Victoria CD Control Board should be called as soon as district councillors and aldermen return from the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Penikese, during the first week of October.

In February this year the control board overruled objections of Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele who proposed a "dig-in" policy, and ordered publication of a detailed evacuation plan.

Ald. Pinfold, who returned this week from a CD course at Ottawa, urged the plan, as approved, be circulated immediately.

A booklet, complete with map showing escape routes for all sections, and including instructions for survival in atomic attack, was prepared by CD coordinator Roger Peachey. He said at the time of the meeting two CD experts would come here from Ottawa to assist in final preparation of the book.

"They may not be coming now," Ald. Pinfold told the mayor.

Ald. Pinfold detailed some of the instruction he received at the CD college. He said a section of radio-active material had been displayed and he and other municipal representatives had been given Geiger counters.

He said destructive rays were recorded after they passed through such items as a hay stack, a pile of mud, sand bags, a two-foot concrete wall. Evacuation would be the only defence for Victoria, he said.

"Dig a shelter under one of our parks, 200 feet deep. Line it with 10 feet of concrete—it would still be useless."

He felt any evacuation plan would be useless unless there was full co-operation by the provincial CD authorities.

"Calgary carried out a practice evacuation. But the situation would be different here. If the population was moved to Goldstream, there would not be 100 houses to give shelter."

He said the district should ask the provincial government to set up a permanent reception area there with tents and supplies stockpiled.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

Love Thy Neighbor Is Easter's Quote

The following is the second in a series of weekly discussions with ministers of churches in the Greater Victoria area, who will be asked to comment on the Biblical passage which holds the most significance for them.

"...Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself."—Gospel according to St. Luke, chapter 10, verse 27.

"There's nothing wrong with the world today but for the human element in it," said Rev. George R. Easter, First Baptist Church.

"The passionate cry of mankind is 'What's in it for me.' You can't tell a selfish man that it isn't nice to be selfish. It calls for an inner revolution of character and you will never achieve it apart from worship."

"The quotation says you must love your neighbor as yourself, but I'm dead sure you'll never get the brotherhood of man merely by saying 'Come on, let's do it together.'"

"I have poor beggars come in here whose life is being ruined by drink," he said. "Never, by reason alone, can I show them that science, religion and society are against them. They must undergo some great religious experience to realize that there is a power outside themselves to help change their lives."

DUTY VS. DESIRE

"Every time duty and desire meet, duty must have some terrific reserves, or desire will win hands down," Mr. Easter said. "That reserve can be strengthened through Christianity—the love of God and of your fellow man."

REV. G. R. EASTER
First Baptist Church

On October 1, Mr. Easter will have served First Baptist Church for 14 years. To celebrate, he will travel with Mrs. Easter to Hamilton, Ont., where his daughter, Jean, 23, will graduate with a bachelor of science degree from McMaster University.

His son, John, 21, left this week to enter second year arts at Brandon College, Brandon, Man.

YOU SAID TO ME—

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

By ETHEL TULL

You said to me, "The world could be such a pleasant place if people could learn to live at peace with one another."

Yes, it would be a very lovely place, but the trouble is that so many of us consider that if only other people would begin to change their way of living, all would be well with the world. For a long period of my own life, I often had the thought that love for others would be so easy if only their lives were more in accordance with the pattern I set for them in my mind. I could not see that I myself needed to change, but now I hope I am learning the lesson that a changed world must begin with a change in myself. If I take an honest look into my own heart, I shall probably find there the sin to which I object so strongly in someone else.

Peace in the world must begin with peace in your home and in mine. We cannot demand a standard of life for others which we are not prepared to practice ourselves.

We are all hoping so much from the mission that is to be a part of the life of our city for the coming week. It is so wonderful that 70 churches can unite in this project, with the purpose of bringing Victoria to know and serve Christ. We long for God to reach down in some mysterious, miraculous way and make our world different through the message of one of His children. He will do it, but only if we reach up to grasp His hand—only if each of us is willing and eager to listen to His voice and follow Christ through the leading of the Spirit. Then we shall know how to walk together along the good road—a community that will know "the things that be long to its peace."

City Preacher Succeeds With Book on Tithes

Strong stand in favor of tithing has been taken by Rev. Emma Smiley of Victoria Truth Centre in her first book, "Bread of Life," which goes on sale here next week.

Mrs. Smiley reports that issues of the book, published by the Montrose Company, have sold out twice in the United States.

In her defence of tithing (voluntary contribution of 10 per cent of earnings), she points to the 16-year record of the Truth Centre.

Although collections have never been taken in her church, "funds are always available," she says, and the present church building was paid for within five years by private contributions.

Mrs. Smiley has dedicated her book to her daughter June, Mrs. Rowland Braley, whose husband is on the board of directors.

Appeal for donations of clothing for needy persons overseas was made this weekend by the Victoria meeting of the Society of Friends.

"Good, clean clothing, with at least six months' wear left in it, is needed urgently," said Quaker Relief treasurer I. M. Vallance.

Donations may be sent to the Friends' Meeting House, 1831 Fern Street, where helpers will meet with members of the local United Nations group to sort out and repair clothing before it is baled for shipment.

Meeting of helpers will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Wrong-Way
Freighter
Breaks Up

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Huge seas, smashing against the beached freighter Seagate throughout the night, broke the ship in half today only hours before a salvage crew planned to attempt to refloat her. Henry Foss of the Foss Launch and Tug Co. reported.

Foss said the ship, which went aground on Washington's coast Sept. 6, will be "a total loss."

When the ship first grounded in dense fog the crew thought she was on Broditch Ledge at the entrance to the Victoria, B.C., harbor. A second message from the ship placed it at Race Rocks, 12 miles west of Victoria. It finally was located wrecked on Sonora Reef, on the Washington coast 70 miles south of Cape Flattery.

Three days after grounding a storm did what tugs had been unable to do—dislodge the ship. She drifted two and one-half miles before grounding on Tahola Beach.

The two halves of the vessel had not parted this morning, but the towing company official said that would probably happen in the afternoon.

A Foss company salvage crew headed by Jeff Hoag of Seattle and Drew Foss of Tacoma is standing by to await developments and determine what attempts might be made to salvage the remains of the ship. The tug Craig Foss is also on the scene.

Workmen had been scheduled to be put aboard the freighter by helicopter this weekend to start their efforts to refloat the Liberian registered ship.

Blunted Suez Plan
Approved by France

LONDON (AP)—The French cabinet decided today to participate in the blunted Suez Canal Users Association, with the reservation that it must not weaken insistence on the principle of international administration of the waterway.

Tonight, Britain's Colonial Secretary Lennox-Boyd reaffirmed the Eden government's view that the Suez Canal must not be left "in the unrestricted control of a dictator."

"On this there can be no compromise," he said in a broadcast speech.

At the same time Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd issued formal invitations fixing Oct.

Premier Frost Rules Self Out
Of Conservative Leader Race

OTTAWA (CP)—Political sources here say Mr. Drew's resignation Friday as national Progressive Conservative leader has left the field wide open for some half-dozen as party leader.

But no one appears at the moment to have the inside track for the post. The only man considered a sure victor in a leadership fight is Premier Frost of Ontario.

However, Mr. Frost said Friday night in a statement he has no intention of changing his position in refusing to enter federal politics.

"I repeat I am not a contender for federal leadership," Mr. Frost said in Lindsay, Ont.

Meanwhile, another name—that of John B. Hamilton, MP for York West, was added to the five mentioned most frequently as possible successors to Mr. Drew: John Diefenbaker, Donald Fleming, E. Davie Fulton and George Hees, all Conservative MPs, and University of Toronto's principal, Dr. Sydney E. Smith.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa also may be a candidate. The 60-year-old woman mayor said that if she is nominated Continued on Page 27

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Canadian champion Marlene Stewart of Fontaine, Ont., was 2 down to Joanne Gunderson of Kirkland, Wash., after 27 holes in their 36-hole battle here today for the U.S. women's golf championship.

Miss Gunderson, 17-year-old holder of the American junior crown, was campaigning to become the first U.S. junior and senior champion in the same year.

Both girls were playing tremendous pressure golf.

At the end of the morning round Marlene was 1 down after twice moving into the lead in the early stages. The Canadian star, holder of the U.S. collegiate crown and numerous titles in her own country, grabbed the first two holes of the match but was unable to hold her lead as the Washington teen-ager squared matters by winning the fourth and fifth.

Princess Opens
Royal Visit to Mau-Mau Land

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived here by air today to start her five-week East African tour.

The sun blazed down out of a clear sky as the smiling princess stepped down from the airliner which had brought her from London.

She was dressed in blue organza, with a small blue cornflower hat, white gloves, shoes and a handbag. She also wore a diamond spray and pearls.

Margaret flew into Mombasa via Gibraltar, Kano, Nigeria, and Entebbe, Uganda.

During an hour's stopover at Kano Friday night the princess took a 60-minute moonlight spin through the quiet city.

The holiday spirit seized Mombasa after the arrival Friday of the royal yacht Britannia, in which the princess will later sail to Mauritius and Zanzibar.

Some Arabs, including children, have come hundreds of miles to see the Princess. Many of the African villagers have never before seen a city or a two-story building.

Margaret's plane was to have flown over Egypt but the Suez Canal crisis caused a change of plan.

RCAF Canso Hunts Missing Men, Plane

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—An RCAF Canso searched again today for two missing Williams Lake men and their light plane, missing in the rugged Buckley House-Fort St. James area, of north-central B.C.

Pilot Bert Lloyd, 30, and prospector Bert Goodrich, 48, were due to return to Vanderhoof, Sept. 15. They started out from there on Sept. 10 in their light float plane to make an aerial survey of placer mining claims.

A trader said he saw the men on Sept. 15 near Buckley House, on Takla Lake, 150 miles northwest of Prince George.

An RCAF Canso searched all water routes from Buckley House to Fort St. James Friday at an altitude of between 2,000 and 3,000 feet without success.

STIFF SENTENCE

VANCOUVER—A six-time offender was handed a six-month jail sentence Friday for impaired driving, the longest term ever imposed for such an offence in B.C.

Douglas Williamson, 31-year-old Vancouver salesman, was also prohibited from driving for three years after being arrested early Friday while driving erratically at a south-central intersection here.

FISHERMEN SET DEADLINE

VANCOUVER—The B.C. salmon fleet has set Sept. 29 as the deadline for settlement of fall chum prices with packing companies.

The companies have offered a 12-cent contract maximum.

GAS FRANCHISE APPROVED

NELSON—Nelson ratepayers voted Friday in favor of giving a 21-year franchise to the Inland Natural Gas Company and sale of the city-owned gas plant to the company.

Inland has offered to buy the city's present gas plant for $70,000 and operate it as at present until natural gas is piped into the city about November, 1957. They plan to spend about $1,000,000 in Nelson, including replacing all city mains, many of which are obsolete and broken.

VANCOUVER—A three-man subcommittee was formed here Friday to find a location for a treatment centre for drug addicts.

Members are A. J. Harrison, town planning commission chairman; Charles Brakenridge and F. W. G. Sergeant.

Objections from 60 property owners caused the planning commission to turn down a request from the Narcotic Addiction Foundation of B.C. to convert a private home in suburban Point Grey into a treatment centre.

DEMANDS PUBLIC TRIAL

VANCOUVER—Vancouver lawyer Angelo Branca said Friday he has demanded that charges be laid against Constable Bert Maxey, who he says has been discharged from Delta police without a hearing.

Mr. Branca said he has written to Ladner police commission that unless the dismissed constable is given a proper public trial he will ask the attorney-general to act. He said he will be present at the next meeting of the commission.

GUS LAUDS VICTORIANS

A new schedule which will permit Gus Ryder to "carry on, but a little easier," following a Florida vacation, was revealed by the famous Toronto swimming coach in a letter to the Times today.

Mr. Ryder went to hospital in Toronto for a rest and medical check-up after his strenuous summer.

"While in hospital I received many letters from the blind and crippled youngsters, some in bed and some facing operations," Ryder wrote. "Yet they would write to me. Folks are really wonderful."

Gus also disclosed some of the philosophy behind his training of Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon.

"Toronto gave Marilyn, Cliff and me a wonderful ticker-tape reception. It was grand. However, we shall never forget the Victoria reception. That medalion the city gave me is the envy of all—and it was all done so spontaneously," he said.

NEVER FORGET

"The people of Victoria we shall never forget. We wanted folks to like us for ourselves, just as we liked the Victorians for the same reason. No celebrity or fame stuff, no boasting."

"All we said was, we would do our very best, even if we missed we would try again. There isn't a body of water in the world I respect as much as the Strait."

"Naturally we would have liked to do it the first time, but in sport as in life you have to keep trying."

"I knew Cliff would do it, and I knew that Cliff would fire Marilyn to do it through his example. You can see what was riding on Cliff's swim—actually two swims."

"To get Marilyn back into training after her discouraging try was tough, but putting her on Cliff's team during his swim was the answer. It worked."

"In her training on every two-hour swim, I would stop her at an hour and say: 'You're going too good, I want to save that,' thus building her up for the future."

"She was something inside to make good, the same as Cliff did."

"Insisting on the Aug. 23 swim date, I knew if we waited we would not be able to hold that mental pitch. She did it, with plenty of help from Capt. Cavin, Jack Todd and everyone else in the party."

"Cliff's Atlantic City swim, a 26-mile race with Tom Parks, took it out of him for the summer. His swim of the Strait, although wonderful in every way, wasn't the same Cliff Lumsdon."

"All we wanted him to do was make it. No one had made it that way so we had to be sure. However, it all turned out great, one going one way and the other, the other way, and both did it with great humility and modesty, making a host of friends."

"Stomach cramps finished Cliff in the $26,000 Brading swim (Lake Ontario)."

"A doctor's wife here said the feeling was much like labor pains in childbirth and after the hospital tests I took, I can believe it!"

"The important part of this letter is to tell you how much Mrs. Ryder and I appreciated everything at Victoria, and how wonderful folks were."

"Different places I went in Victoria for various things people refused payment, saying how much they appreciated the work we were doing."

"Dozens and dozens would stop me on the street and shake hands over it. Letters and phone calls poured in. One editor telephoned me long-distance to apologize for rough criticism after the first swim."

"Our pool here is in wonderful shape, financially and otherwise, due mainly to the help of the kids who work voluntarily, and our voluntary swim monies."

"Right now I am playing hockey. Mrs. Ryder and I are planning a long Florida vacation."

"Please give our best to Denny Boyd, Les Fox and all the grand people at The Times who helped us to make this a successful swim. I have written our thanks to the City Council. It was a privilege for us to be on the Victoria team."

"I find it difficult to understand why pipe bands are on the increase in Canada when there are so many fine brass instruments. This is no reflection on Scotsmen. I'm speaking musically."

"I realize that piping is an art, but its survival must be largely attributed to tradition; certainly not to melodious sound. In my opinion, no pipe band, no matter how good it is, can match a brass ensemble for entertainment or otherwise."

"But regardless of my feelings for pipes (I like to hear them at great distances), I realize there are many people, including my wife, who find the music—or sound—exhilarating. And I have just the record for them. It's a new five 'ways' to happiness ahead!"

New Trial Asked For Killer

Evidence showed that 34-year-old Joseph Gordon could not have killed constable Gordon Sinclair in Vancouver, Dec. 7 because he was not at the scene of the murder, lawyer Larry Hill argued before the B.C. Court of Appeal Friday.

Mr. Hill, counsel for Gordon, asked the court for a new trial for the condemned man who, with James Carey, 26, is scheduled to die Oct. 16 for the gun-slashing of the policeman.

Mr. Hill argued that the evidence showed Gordon was in downtown Vancouver at the time of the shooting.

Wave of Sympathy Swelling for Drew

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
BUP Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA (BUP)—In a wave of sympathetic reaction unparalleled in the memory of Parliament Hill veterans, all that could be said by way of good about retired Progressive Conservative chief George Drew was being said in the capital this weekend.

The volume of favorable testimony which individuals in all walks of life were voicing was impressive. Its effect was heightened by the atmosphere of personal tragedy with which most of the discussion invested Drew's sudden and involuntary elimination from the federal political stage.

George Drew will not be remembered by this capital as a particularly successful party leader. In fact, his tenure of office has been a rather prolonged period of disappointment to the Conservative rank-and-file.

SCORNED HEAVY ODDS But he has been recognized as a particularly brave and indomitable fighter who could be forced by no weight of odds or severity of reverses to admit final defeat. And since Parliament Hill loves a good fighter regardless of his political affiliation, all parties in the House of Commons have held George Drew in unqualified admiration.

Thus to Parliament Hill veterans today there seemed to be something essentially unfair in a fighter so indomitable being benched by capricious fate from a field of action where heavy odds and severe reverses had still left him so splendidly uncowed, and still able to instill high morale amongst his always outnumbered band of followers.

Another thing that this capital was finding impossible to forget today was the fact that during practically the whole of his active life—in wartime as well as in peace—George Drew had made public service his vocation.

Boycott Probe MELBOURNE (AP)—An urgent report on the planned boycott of the Olympic Games by international newsreel and television agencies is to be made to Premier H. Bolte of Australia's Victoria State.

General Peakes will attend a meeting of the party caucus in Ottawa Oct. 1 and a meeting of the national Progressive-Conservative executive the following day.

The executive, in addition to selecting a date and place of a party convention to choose a new leader, will review Conservative policy.

"I believe Mr. Diefenbaker will be selected as the new leader," said General Peakes. "While there may be one or two other names considered, I feel the final choice will be unanimous in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker."

Nominations will come from the convention floor, he said. There will be no recommendation from caucus or the national executive.

General Peakes expressed his sorrow at Mr. Drew's ill health, making it necessary for him to relinquish party leadership. He said the illness was a direct result of overwork during the last parliamentary session.

Former Conservative candidate here, A. DeB. McPhillips said in view of Mr. Drew's outstanding work, especially in the sessions of 1955-56, "the Conservative party had good reason to believe that its leader would become the next prime minister of Canada."
